TRAMWAY MEETING.

UNFAIR COMPETITION ALLEGED.

STRONG CRITICISM OF HOTEL COMPANY.

"DISTINCT INJUSTICE."

Strong complaint at what was characterised as an attack on the most remunerative section of the tramway service was voiced at the annual meeting of shareholders of the Hongkong Tramways, Ltd., held this morning.

The Chairman referred to unsuccessful applications which the Company had made to the Government for permission to run a motor bus service along the Queen's Road route, and subsequently spoke of the "unfair and unnecessary" competition which it now has to contend with.

Mr. A. H. Ferguson, who also spoke, said he saw no more justification for the Hotel Company operating buses in open and deliberate competition with the Tramway Company than in the latter Company building a hotel and competing with the Hotel Company.

He suggested that the two Companies put their heads together and see if matters could not be straightened out, as a distinct injustice appeared to have been done to the Tramway Company.

CAPITAL OUTLAY FIGURES.

The Chairman, Mr. B. D. F. Beith, began his speech by saying that although the traffic receipts for the year again constituted a record, this was due to the remarkably good traffic receipts during the first eight months of the year. The receipts for the last quarter of the year were less satisfactory than in the same quarter last year. He continued:

There have been various influences that have contributed to the decline in the traffic receipts during the last three or four months of the year. I refer chiefly to:

1.—Fewer people in the Colony. The decline in the sale of our military tickets alone is 150,000, i.e., a drop of 25 per cent as compared with 1927.

2.—The Ming Yuen Gardens which used to attract a large number of people has been more or less closed throughout the year. Similarly, the Lee Gardens, which brought in considerable revenue in 1927 and the early part of 1928, has been comparatively moribund during the last six months.

3.—The enormous increase in the number of public hire cars at very low rates. It is a common sight especially on football days—to see five or six people going to or returning from Happy Valley in a public motor car.

4.—The loss of traffic consequent upon the closing of the two Sugar Refineries for a considerable period of the year, and

5.—Motor bus competition. Should these adverse factors continue, shareholders will realize that the tramway receipts in respect of the present year will be less than during the year under review.

Hotel Bus Service.

On October 15th last year, a motor bus service was commenced by the Hongkong and Shanghai Hotels, Ltd., between Causeway Bay and Whitty Street via Queen's Road. This was subsequently extended at either end to Tai Hang village and Kennedy Town respectively. As shareholders are aware, this route—due to the topography and general configuration of our island Colony—has the advantage of being the natural east to west artery and is a shorter and straighter thoroughfare than that followed by the tram track.

The length of route over which this tram and bus competition extends is about 4½ miles and it is therefore not surprising that our first-class receipts have declined during the last few months.

Shareholders will, I feel sure, want to know why this important and advantageous route, which may be termed the "Queen's Road concession," was not granted to this Company.

Applications Made.

In reply to that, I can only say that we applied to the Government four years ago for authority to provide either a motor bus or a trolley bus service along the route in question and that Government replied (in March, 1925) to the effect that "Queen's Road was too narrow and that the present tramway supplemented by jinkishas appears to be sufficient." We applied again in August, 1927, but received only a formal acknowledgment. Feeling that it was only Queen's Road West that was regarded as too narrow, we applied on February 24th, 1928, to operate a service between Blake Pier and Tai Koo, via Queen's Road Central, Queen's Road East and Caroline Road, but this, too, was turned down.

In June last, however, our application for powers to run anywhere along our own tram routes was sanctioned. We can therefore—if it is thought desirable—run buses to and from Tai Koo, but not via Queen's Road.

An order was placed for six 25-seater buses as soon as we were certain we should be permitted to run them and these were put on the road on November 5th. At the outset they operated along the tram track between Western Market and Happy Valley, but, later, the C. S. P. gave us permission to deviate somewhat from the tram track and from November 10th the buses have been maintaining a service between Wing Lok Wharf and Happy Valley via Connaught, I. ad, Murray Road, and thence along the tram track and Wanchai Road.

Recently we have been authorised to operate buses along the new 75' 0" road on the Praya East reclamation and a further order for buses was accordingly placed last November.

Compared with Queen's Road, our bus route is lean, but having regard to the short time we have been running and the general circumstances the Directors are able to report that whilst earnings so far are not large the results are not considered unsatisfactory.

"Unfair Competition."

I feel sure shareholders on this occasion would like to hear something about what is going on in other parts of the world in connexion with competitive transportation and the like and how the question is being dealt with. I therefore propose to deal briefly with the subject of unfair and unnecessary competition to-day on general lines rather than with other less interesting matters in connexion with your Company. I say "unfair competition" because this Company has, during its quarter of a century of operation, fully carried out its obligations. Improvements have been and are being constantly made in the cars and track and general service; in fact, during the past ten years alone the amount of capital spent

COMPARISON BY SIR LAMING WORTHINGTON-EVANS.

MODERNISING TROOPS.

London, Feb. 28.

An interesting comparison between British military expenditure and that of other countries was made by Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, the Secretary of State for War, when he introduced the Army Estimates totalling £10,546,000, in the House of Commons. The sum represents a decrease of £505,000 on the figures for last year.

Sir Laming Worthington-Evans declared that Britain alone among the nations of the world had curtailed military expenditure. He also referred at considerable length to the mechanisation of the Army, saying that enormous strides had been made. He anticipated even greater progress owing to the sure foundations already laid.

Our Reduction.

Comparing British expenditure with that of other countries, the Secretary for War said that the reduction in effective vote in the life-time of the present Conservative Government was eleven per cent. It had diminished from over £36,000,000 to £32,000,000.

During the same period, the United States had increased comparable expenditure from £51,000,000 in 1925/6 to £59,000,000 sterling in 1928/9. Italy had increased her expenditure from about eighteen millions sterling to twenty-eight millions sterling and Germany had increased hers from about twenty millions to twenty-five millions for the same years in each case.

France had increased her expenditure from £34,000,000 in 1925 to about £58,000,000 in 1929.

The Soviet Costs.

The Soviet Socialist Government of Russia had more than doubled their expenditure but its military budget included the Navy and the Air Force and he could not therefore make a close comparison.

Belgium, Switzerland and Japan all showed some increase and we were the only nation which had continually reduced its expenditure on its army.

Cavalry To Go.

Referring to mechanisation the minister said that now each cavalry regiment had a mechanised machine-gun squadron. In addition, all cavalry regiments were being converted into armoured car regiments and some twenty-two six-wheeled armoured cars of the latest pattern had been purchased as part of the equipment of one regiment.

In infantry, there was an increased number of machine guns so that each battalion had one company of sixteen guns of which twelve were manned in peace.

Enormous Strides.

In three battalions, those companies had mechanised transport and he hoped to be able to equip three more this year.

This year also they were commencing the mechanisation of the light artillery. Two brigades of field artillery had been equipped with radio telephony and four more would be so equipped this year.

TEXT OF FRANCO-BELGIAN "MINUTES" OUT.

"DAGBLAD" PERSISTS.

Amsterdam, Feb. 28.

The latest development concerning the alleged secret military alliance between France and Belgium adds to the sensation already caused.

The Utrecht Dagblad, which caused the flutter in world's finances, to-day publishes the first part of the minutes of an alleged Franco-Belgian military conference held in Brussels between September 7th and September 12th, 1927.

The minutes are dated September 30th, 1927, and are signed by General Dabney, representing France, and General Galet, representing Belgium. They conclude: "Seen and approved by the Ministry of National Defence C. H. de Brocquillois," and are certified as agreed by Colonel Michem.

The minutes purport to be "interpretations" by the General Staffs of the two countries of the Military Convention of 1920, and the most significant feature of the alleged text is the assumption of the co-operation of British troops "permitting serious diversion of the Dutch at Limberg."

Colonel Michem (Belgium) proposed, according to these published minutes that the British contingent should be strong "motorised" with numerous cavalry, to whom he assigns the task of "the necessary diversion at the North of Dutch Limberg."—Reuter.

FOR THE BRITISH MINERS.

OVER £300 ALREADY SENT HOME.

WELCOME CONTRIBUTIONS TO HAND TO-DAY.

"EVERY $5 MEANS £1."

Further welcome donations are to hand since yesterday for the British Miners' Distress Fund, with the result that the response to the Telegraph appeals has now brought in nearly $3,800.

We have already cabled Home to the Mansion House sums totalling £200, and to-day a further draft for £100 has been despatched. The equivalent of £100, being half of the contribution from Tai-koo Dock staff, has also been sent to the Lord Provost of Edinburgh for the Scottish Miners' Relief Fund.

In Memoriam.

To-day's contributions include a sum of $5 sent in memory of the late Mr. H. P. White by a resident who thinks this a better way of paying a tribute than by the purchase of a wreath.

Another resident, in sending a contribution, expresses "all good wishes for the success of your appeal."

The amounts so far received by the Telegraph are:

Need Still Urgent.

The need for further funds is still urgent, especially in view of the return of colder weather to England. One result of the severe winter in Europe has been to cause an increased demand for British coal, and this for a time resulted in the employment of some of the miners who were formerly out of work. But the problem is a huge one, only very slightly relieved by the partial resumption of work in some of the mines.

All the money that can possibly be given will be needed, and contributors may rest assured that the very best use will be made of their donations. Moreover, every $5 subscribed in Hongkong will mean an addition of £1 to the Lord Mayor's Fund. We therefore appeal for continued support for the sufferers.

I enclose herewith the sum of $..... as a donation to the British Miners' Distress Fund.

NEW YEAR HONOURS.

TWO LOCAL RESIDENTS INCLUDED.

LT. COL. L. G. BIRD, AND MR. LI YAU-TSUN.

A COMPREHENSIVE LIST.

The names of two Hongkong residents appear in the Honours List usually conferred on New Year's Day, but which has been postponed until this morning on account of the illness of His Majesty the King.

Mr. Li Yau-tsun, the Chairman of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, Hongkong, has been appointed Commander of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire (C.B.E.) and Lieut. Col. Lennox Godfrey Bird, the Commandant of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps has been appointed O.B.E.

The Honours include three Peerages, nine Baronetcies, and thirty Knights, the latter appointed mostly for political and public services.

A number of Shanghai residents have been appointed Officers or Members of the British Empire Order for valuable services in connexion with the entertainment of the Shanghai Defence Force.

Mr. Basil C. Newton, of the British Legation, Peking now permanently stationed at Shanghai in order to maintain relations between the Nationalist Government and Sir Miles Lampson has been granted the C.M.G.

NUMEROUS WOMEN RECIPIENTS.

Lieut. Col. L. G. Bird, D.S.O., who has been awarded the O.B.E., is one of the best well-known residents of the Colony and Commandant of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps. Colonel Bird's family has been associated with the Colony since its early days, for it was as long ago as 1857 that Mr. S. G. Bird, an uncle of Colonel Bird, arrived in the Colony with the Royal Engineers, eight years later being appointed Assistant Surveyor General—a post which to-day approximates to Assistant Director of Public Works. Some few years later Colonel Bird's father came out to Hongkong, and on leaving the Colony was succeeded by Mr. H. W. Bird, who a few years ago retired after having been the head of Messrs. Palmer and Turner for some years. Colonel Bird arrived in the Colony some years before the war, and early identified himself with the Volunteer movement, being in command of the Reserve Company from 1911 until the outbreak of war. Proceeding Home to join up, Colonel Bird saw much active service during the war, winning the Distinguished Service Order and rising to the rank of Colonel. On returning to Hongkong in 1919, Colonel Bird was asked to take control of the Volunteer Defence Corps, being appointed Administrative Commandant. Upon the re-organisation of the Corps in 1927, he was appointed Commandant—a post he still occupies.

Interest in Shek-O.

Colonel Bird has been the head of Messrs. Palmer and Turner since the retirement of his brother, and has taken an active part in the public and social life of the Colony. He has been an Unofficial Justice of the Peace since March, 1909, and is this year's President of the St. George's Society. He is also President of the Hongkong Hockey Club, and a Vice-President of the Hongkong Philharmonic Society. He has been keenly interested in the development of Shek-O, being a Director of the Shek-O Development Co., Ltd., and a Director of the Shek-O Country Club.

General congratulations will be extended to him on the honour which His Majesty has now conferred.

Mr. Li Yau-tsun.

Born in the Nam Hoi District, Kwangtung Province, some 67 years ago, Mr. Li Yau-tsun, Chairman of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, who has been awarded the C.B.E., came to the Colony at the age of 17. Since then he has been an active and energetic figure in Chinese commercial and public life, and has enjoyed great popularity on account of his kind and agreeable disposition. In addition to being the owner and director of a large number of Chinese shops and companies, he has spent much of his valuable time working for the welfare of the Chinese community and his connexions with the different local charitable and public organisations has extended over a period of 40 years.

Always an ardent supporter of the Tung Wah Hospital, the leading Chinese hospital, Mr. Li Yau-tsun became one of its directors 30 years ago and since then has served many terms of office. In addition to being Chairman of the Shaukiwan Water District, Yau-mat and Kowloon City Public Dispensaries, he became one of the directors of the District Watchmen's Committee some 13 years ago.

Strike Services.

Mr. Li Yau-tsun was made a life director of the Po Leung Kuk some years ago. In the 1925 strike, Mr. Li worked energetically among the Chinese for the restoration of normalcy and he headed a Commission of eight Chinese merchants which went up to Canton to negotiate with the Canton strikers, urging them to return to work.

At present Mr. Li Yau-tsun owns from 30 to 40 Chinese business shops trading in leather, insurance and other lines. He is director of the China Building and was the Chairman of the Board of Directors until last year. He is also Chairman of the Hongkong and New Territories Ferry Company, Ltd., South China Insurance Company, Min Yuen Paper Manufacturing Company, Cheung Chua Electric Company, Kwong Nam Yuen Leather Co. and many other businesses.

From March, 1926, he has been the popular Chairman of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Li Yau-tsun has also interested himself much in the development of athletic activities among the younger Chinese generation and he is the present President of the South China Athletic Association.

THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

GOVERNMENT AND THE HSIN WAH DISASTER.

TOBACCO TAXES.

Five new Bills were introduced at yesterday's meeting of the Legislative Council, including one relating to changing the system of taxation on tobacco.

His Excellency the Governor presided over the meeting and there were also present:

His Excellency the General Officer Commanding the Troops (Major General C. C. Luard, C.B., C.M.G.).

The Colonial Secretary (Hon. Mr. W. T. Southern, C.M.G.).

The Attorney General (Hon. Sir Joseph Kemp, K.C.).

The Colonial Treasurer (Hon. Mr. C. McI. Messer, C.B.E.).

The Director of Public Works (Hon. Mr. H. T. Greasy, C.B.E.).

The Captain Superintendent of Police (Hon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe, C.M.G.).

The Secretary for Chinese Affairs (Hon. Mr. R. A. C. North).

The Harbour Master (Hon. Commander G. F. Hole).

The Director of Medical and Sanitary Services (Hon. Dr. A. R. Wellington).

Hon. Sir Henry Pollock, K.C.

Hon. Sir Shouan Chow.

Hon. Mr. A. C. Hynes.

Hon. Mr. J. Owen Hughes.

Hon. Mr. W. E. L. Shenton.

Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga.

Hon. Dr. S. W. Ts'o, LL.D.

Mr. E. R. Wynne-Jones, (Deputy Clerk of Councils).

The Director of Medical and Sanitary Services (Hon. Dr. A. R. Wellington) took the oath of allegiance on taking his seat as a member of the Council.

The Hsin Wah Disaster.

Hon. Sir Henry Pollock asked: What action does the Government intend to take in connection with the recommendations of the Coroner's Jury at the Hsin Wah Inquiry?

The Colonial Secretary:—

1. The present system of communications, by telephone, telegraph and wireless telegraphy with Wagon and other similar stations is under examination with a view to the more rapid and accurate transmission of messages.

2. So far as can be ascertained no other ships keeping W/T watch were in the immediate vicinity of the Hsin Wah at the time of the disaster, so that on this occasion broadcasting would have served no useful purpose.

Government, however, agrees that in other cases broadcasting might be of great assistance to ships in distress and steps are being taken to ensure that news received of disasters, other than that broadcast by other shore stations or ships, will be broadcast in the future.

3. The Harbour Master has full authority to deal directly and promptly in such cases. On this occasion prompt action was taken in that as soon as the message was received stating that the Hsin Wah was aground, arrangements were made immediately to send out the tug Talkoo to the ship's assistance.

4. Police launches are built specially for Police work and it is not considered expedient to alter their design to that of deep sea craft. The Officers in charge of these launches are competent in the handling of their launches.

5. It would be possible to keep the Rescue Tug Kausung continuously under steam at half an hour's notice but this would incur an additional expense of approximately $30,000 annually.

The Hsin Wah, carrying W/T but not in working order, grounded on a clear night on an island on which there was a First Order Light burning brightly. A repetition of this disaster is so improbable that it is not considered that this extra recurrent expenditure would be justified.

NEW BILLS READ.

Five Ordinances Introduced and Explained.

The Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill intituled An Ordinance to amend the Supreme Court Ordinance, 1873. He said: At present, the power to appoint temporarily a judge of the Supreme Court, is confined to three cases: (1), when the office of judge has become vacant; (2), in case of the illness or absence of the judge, and (3) for the purposes of the Appeal Court held under the Full Court Ordinance, 1912. The object of this Bill is to give you, Sir, power to appoint temporarily a judge in any case in which you may think it desirable. It may, for example, be desirable to appoint a judge temporarily to deal with some special accumulation of work and congestion of litigation, or it may be desirable to appoint a judge temporarily to relieve another permanent judge for some non-judicial work on which he may be engaged for the time being. I beg to move the first reading.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

Bankruptcy Ordinance.

The Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill intituled An Ordinance to amend the Bankruptcy Ordinance, 1891. He said: The object of this Bill is to provide that upon a bankrupt coming up for his discharge, the Court shall take into consideration the report by the Official Receiver on the bankrupt's conduct and affairs, including his conduct in the course of the bankruptcy proceedings. The Bill also provides that the Official Receiver's report shall be prima facie evidence of the statements contained therein. These two provisions occur in the English Bankruptcy Act, from which our Ordinance was taken, but for some reason they were omitted when our Ordinance of 1891 was passed. It is considered desirable that they should now be introduced here. The amendments are made applicable to pending bankruptcies. I beg to move the first reading.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

Tobacco Taxation.

The Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill intituled An Ordinance to amend the law relating to the taxation of tobacco. He said: The present system of taxation of tobacco is a system by which the manufactured article is taxed. That involves a scale of duties varying with the value of the particular kind of manufactured tobacco in question, and as a result there are four different classes of cigars, four classes of cigarettes and four classes of pipe tobacco, all bearing different duties. That system also involves provisions for the manufacture of tobacco in bond. The object of this Bill is to change the system of taxation altogether and to tax tobacco at the source; in other words, to tax tobacco as it comes into the Colony, whether in raw form or manufactured form. There are various reasons for altering the system of taxation. One is that the system which the Bill will introduce is the one followed in Great Britain. Another is, it has been found very difficult, in fact almost impossible, to control the large number of very small factories where tobacco is manufactured. Nothing but constant and very meticulous supervision would enable a proper control to be kept of these factories and the collection of the proper duty. Then again, it is found very difficult to assign any particular kind of manufactured tobacco, whether cigarette or cigar or some other kind, to its proper class in the scale of taxation. Sometimes it is very difficult to say on which side of the line any particular brand falls. Then again, another difficulty which has given rise to a good deal of misunderstanding in the Colony is the difficulty of the cigarette sold deliberately at a low price, and very often at a loss, in order to kill competition or to establish a new brand. The Government are not concerned in any way with preventing such a practice or interfering in any way with competition of that kind. Some people seem to have imagined that the Government by this Bill were endeavouring to check that practice, but that is no concern of the Government. The Government, however, is concerned from the revenue point of view with that practice if the present system of taxation continues. Tobacco, of course, ought to pay duty according to its grade. Where the scale of duty depends on the value of the tobacco, more valuable tobacco ought to pay a higher tax and less valuable tobacco ought to pay a lower tax. When, however, the dealer sells a more valuable tobacco at a lower price he pays duty at a lower rate and consequently the revenue suffers. Again, the charging of a lower price for higher value tobacco at short notice or no notice at all, affects appreciably the estimates of tobacco revenue, and it is difficult sometimes to estimate what the revenue will be if the duty is liable to variation at the will of manufacturers who deliberately, and no doubt quite properly, under-sell their goods for their own special reasons.

The new duties are contained in clause 7 of the Bill. It is no part of the policy of the Bill to increase the duties on tobacco, though, of course, inevitably there will be individual variations in the incidence of the tax. It will be seen that raw tobacco will be charged at the same rate throughout; it varies according to the amount of moisture in the tobacco and according to whether the tobacco is stripped or unstripped, but practically speaking there is one flat rate for all raw tobacco. In the case of manufactured tobacco, all cigars will be at the same rate, all cigarettes at the same rate and all other manufactured tobacco at the same rate, the amount being $1.50 per pound for cigars, 75 cents for cigarettes and 75 cents for other manufactured tobacco. The same clause—clause 7—provides for the temporary problem of tobacco which is already in the Colony and which will now have to pay duty immediately. Under the old system that tobacco, of course, would not pay duty until it was manufactured and taken out of the manufacturer's bonded premises, but that tobacco will now, under the new system, have to pay duty immediately. The method that has been adopted in this Bill to ascertain this duty is to give the Superintendent authority to estimate the amount of tobacco on the manufacturer's premises, to classify it as manufactured or unmanufactured, in the case of manufactured tobacco he will also estimate the weight of unmanufactured tobacco from which the manufactured tobacco was produced, and the duty is payable on the weight so estimated. No doubt he will arrive at this estimate in consultation with the persons who will pay the duty, and though perhaps the provisions seem a little arbitrary, I think they are the only possible ones in the circumstances. I do not think in practice there will be found any cause for complaint.

The alteration of the system of taxation to taxation on entering into the Colony, involves, of course, the provision of rebates or drawbacks on exportation. The Bill contains provisions to enable drawbacks to be paid, and regulations have already been made under the Bill for this purpose. The Bill was brought into force on the evening of the 18th of February by an order of you, Sir, made under the Public Revenue Protection Ordinance, 1927. That Ordinance was passed to enable alterations of taxation to be made quickly and without undue publicity, because it is obvious that when a tax is altered it is possible sometimes for persons, if they have notice, to avoid the new tax by clearances from bond and otherwise. That Ordinance recognises the desirability of making changes in the revenue quickly and secretly. Of course, that order will cease to be effective when this Bill becomes law, and the same provisions that are now in force under your order will then be enforced under this Bill as an Ordinance.

The Bill contains other provisions which I think are all consequential to the main objects of the Bill and other minor points. I beg to move the first reading.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

Watchmen Ordinance.

The Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill intituled An Ordinance to amend the Watchmen Ordinance, 1928. He said: The object of this very short Bill is to exempt from the Watchmen Ordinance persons employed by the Air Ministry. I beg to move the first reading.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

Unclaimed Balances.

The Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill intituled An Ordinance to consolidate and amend the law with respect to certain unclaimed balances and certain other unclaimed sums. He said: Certain defects have been discovered in the present Unclaimed Balances Ordinance, 1895. They are matters of technical detail and they are fully explained in the Objects and Reasons, and I do not think that I need go into them more fully, at least at this stage. The Bill re-enacts the main provisions of the present Ordinance, with additions to meet the defects which have been discovered in it. There is one point, perhaps, to which I ought to draw attention, and that is this, the object of the Bill generally, and of the present Ordinance, is to provide for the transfer to the general revenue of the Colony all sums which remain unclaimed in the hands of officers of the Government, but as it is possible that the claimants—persons who could have claimed these sums—may appear even after the transfer to the revenue of the Colony, provision is made in two ways by which they can still pursue their claims. In the first place, they are given the right to apply to the Courts by petition; they are also given the right to apply to the Governor in Council on any moral ground. The present Ordinance which gives these two rights contains no limitation whatever of the legal right, and it has been thought desirable to provide that claimants to any sums which are transferred to revenue shall be barred after such time and in such conditions as they would be barred if they were pursuing a subject and not the Crown. That provision is taken from the English Intestates Estates Act, which provides that in the case of balances in the hands of the Crown, claims by subjects are barred after such time and in such conditions as they would be barred if they were pursuing a subject and not the Crown. It seems to be a reasonable limitation and it has been inserted in this Bill. There is a similar limitation of right to petition the Governor in Council on moral grounds. I beg to move the first reading.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

First Steps.

With what pleasure you aid your little one in making his first steps! One of the most important steps in your share of the little man's progress is the selection of a medicine to keep his system clean, the action of his bowels healthy and regular. For upon the proper functioning of the digestive tract his future steady development will greatly depend. It is precisely to meet this need that have been devised, and thousands of parents all over the world gratefully testify that they are finding these mild pleasant-tasting little Tablets all that is needed to keep their little ones well.

Guaranteed absolutely pure and safe even for the youngest infant, Baby's Own Tablets are the ideal corrective of stomach and bowel troubles in the very young. Furthermore, they quickly allay the pains of teething, relieve cramps and colics, expel worms, Your chemist can supply them, or post free 6d cents per vial from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60, Kingsway Road, Shanghai.

Stamp Duties.

Mr. Braga's Questions on Revenue Statistics.

Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga asked:

Will the Honourable the Colonial Treasurer state, under separate heads, the amount of revenue collected by the Treasury on account of stamp duties in connection with share transactions in respect of—

(i) Sharebrokers' memos for cash transactions.

(ii) Sharebrokers' contract notes for forward transactions.

(iii) Instrument of Transfer for the following periods, viz.:—

(1) the year 1924,

(2) first and second half, respectively, of the year 1925,

(3) the year 1926,

(4) the year 1927,

(5) the year 1928, and separately for each month, from January to April inclusive, of last year.

(6) January, 1929.

The Colonial Treasurer replied: Separate answers cannot be given to 1 and 2. No answer can be given to 3, as no separate record in respect of this item is kept. For 1 and 2 combined the figures are:

(a) $160,802.

(b) $32,792 and $5,876.

(c) $15,923.

(d) $11,240.

(e) $27,570.

January $4,050

February $2,880

March $4,653

April $2,050

(f) $1,670.

NEW BILLS READ.

Five Ordinances Introduced and Explained.

The Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill intituled An Ordinance to amend the Supreme Court Ordinance, 1873. He said: At present, the power to appoint temporarily a judge of the Supreme Court, is confined to three cases: (1), when the office of judge has become vacant; (2), in case of the illness or absence of the judge, and (3) for the purposes of the Appeal Court held under the Full Court Ordinance, 1912. The object of this Bill is to give you, Sir, power to appoint temporarily a judge in any case in which you may think it desirable. It may, for example, be desirable to appoint a judge temporarily to deal with some special accumulation of work and congestion of litigation, or it may be desirable to appoint a judge temporarily to relieve another permanent judge for some non-judicial work on which he may be engaged for the time being. I beg to move the first reading.

The Colonial Secretary seconded and the Bill was read a first time.

Bankruptcy Ordinance.

The Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill intituled An Ordinance to amend the Bankruptcy Ordinance, 1891. He said: The object of this Bill is to provide that upon a bankrupt coming up for his discharge, the Court shall take into consideration the report by the Official Receiver on the bankrupt's conduct and affairs, including his conduct in the course of the bankruptcy proceedings. The Bill also provides that the Official Receiver's report shall be prima facie evidence of the statements contained therein. These two provisions occur in the English Bankruptcy Act, from which our Ordinance was taken, but for some reason they were omitted when our Ordinance of 1891 was passed. It is considered desirable that they should now be introduced here. The amendments are made applicable to pending bankruptcies. I beg to move the first reading.

SUSPECTED MURDER.

MAN'S DEAD BODY FOUND IN FRONT OF HOUSE.

Intimation of the apparent murder of a gardener residing at the old Kowloon Tong village was received yesterday evening, when the body of a man was found lying in the vacant space in front of his residence.

On receipt of the information the police proceeded to the scene, and up to a late hour last night had not returned to the station. Only very brief information was obtainable. Beyond the fact that the man was a gardener named Chan Shui, aged 37, and resided at Eli Cottage, nothing was known of the circumstances of the man's death when enquiries were made late last night.

The seeming outrage was committed sometime during the day, the body being discovered about 7 p.m., lying in the garden of the cottage.

"FAUST."

ANOTHER REMARKABLE
GERMAN FILM.

"Faust," a German picture of a nature entirely new to the screen, will be presented as the chief attraction at the Queen's Theatre from Sunday to Tuesday according to a special announcement in this issue. With Emil Jannings, the famous German actor, in the leading role, the picture relates in vivid manner Goethe's immortal drama of the triumph of Good over Evil. Faust, however, in the film, is not so much the scientist and charlatan as represented in the drama of Goethe. Rather is he a friend to humanity, always seeking a new way in which to bring happiness to his fellow beings. Enter Mephisto, who seeks to conquer the soul of Faust and dominate the earth. Faust falls under the spell of Evil and goes on a pleasure trip. Mephisto shows him all the wonderful things that may be his if he will only bow to the Devil. The tragedy of Gretchen follows, and here the story deviates from Goethe's drama. But in the end, just as Mephisto believes he has conquered the soul of Faust and so the world, Cherubin advances and disillusionises him in a startling manner. "Faust" is a picture with a moral, and, in view of its nature as an entertainment, crowded houses should be the rule during its run at the Queen's Theatre.

THE SAMOANS.

INTERESTING DETAILS OF
THE "SIVA SIVA."

In connexion with the announcement of the Samoan dances and music which will be presented at the Star Theatre for a short season commencing Sunday, it is interesting to describe what the "Siva Siva" really is. The Samoan Siva is a calisthenic performance with the aid of song; it is only in rare cases pantomimic. It is entirely an exhibition and designed for the entertainment of spectators, without whom there could be no dance. It is a dance of the upper body and is danced sitting, the feet and legs moving only slightly and to keep time. The motions are in no sense symbolic; they imitate generally the rowing in a canoe, or the throwing of a spear. There is no interpretation to be put upon any pose or changes of poses. Sometimes a love song, a battle song, a canoe song are sung with exactly the same movements. Songs for this really new and novel entertainment may be booked in advance at Moutrie's or the Star Theatre at the popular prices of $2 and $1.

RUSSIA AND JAPAN.

JAPANESE PREMIER REPLIES TO QUESTIONS.

Tokyo, Feb. 28.

Replying to a question by an opposition member, who during the discussion of the Peace Preservation Act asserted that the Third International was behind Communist intrigues in Japan, the Premier stated that the Government had "more than once" drawn the Soviet's attention to the Third International's "pernicious" action, as it considers it is justified in filing a protest, "whether the Soviet Government has anything to do with that body or not."

On the interpellator urging the Government to take more positive and effective action, "after the example of Britain and China," in view of "the flagrant breach of the Russo-Japanese treaty," the Premier dismissed the subject by replying that the Government was prepared to take whatever steps it considered necessary.—Reuter.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Stripes Brighton Newest Sport Frocks.

A blue, white and beige sports outfit has its hand-blocked overblouse striped diagonally with blue and white and its white skirt gathered. A gold-yellow sweater, embroidered in white silk, tops a white kasha skirt with box-pleats. Unusual skirt pleats, novelty striping and a new tie effect distinguish a beige, yellow and green outfit.

Children's Colour
Sense.

[BY A HARLEY-STREET
WOMAN DOCTOR.]

Most children love bright and beautiful colours. This sense is inherent. Many adults will disagree, the reason for this probably being that they judge the child's attempts at colour by the standard of adult art. Such a comparison makes the child's work appear primitive. However, it is only necessary to refer to prehistoric man's attempts to prove that both his colour and decoration were very similar to the creations of the present-day child.

Even as Early as 6 Months Old. A baby of six months has been noted to display a great fascination for a highly coloured wool ball which hung over his cot and gyrated at the least movement. In fact, small hands, legs, and watching eyes showed a pitch of excitement and pleasure quite remarkable in one of such tender age. To-day this child has the love of colours to an astonishing degree, as her crayon scribbles on the nursery blackboard show.

Every child of two or three years should be given large sheets of kitchen paper and a box of coloured pencils with which to scribble. This will help his development in many ways—

He will learn how to hold a pencil;

He will soon be able to discriminate between the colours;

His attempts will help his innate creative energy.

The scribbles of a small child always mean something to him, although they appear quite worthless to the adult. His production gives him a great sense of value.

Night Photography.

Have you ever tried taking pictures at night? It is a common practice to take photographs through a coloured lens in broad daylight and call them "moonlight effects." But it is much more interesting to take them actually en clair de lune, and will well repay a little time spent experimenting to find the best length of exposure to give according to conditions.

Of course, unless there is artificial light, there must be moonlight and you must use the time stop on your camera. Set the camera securely so that it will not be moved during the operation. Thirty minutes' exposure is a good one to begin with; and, from the result obtained, use your judgment to improve the next. Print deeply from the negative.

If you put on all the lights in the front of your house, you will find that you can take a most fascinating picture of home at night. A public building with the lights on also shows well. Lights reflected in water are always pretty, and a group round a bonfire is a pleasant reminder of autumn days. In Exchange.

"See what I have made!" is his mental comment. The results should be admired. This is a step towards encouragement for further effort and an outlet for that exuberant energy that so often gets thrown back on himself, the result being a peevish, fretful child.

It is quite a good idea to allow the children to decorate the nursery by painting brightly coloured animals. These can be drawn on black or brown paper in outline and could form a dado for the nursery wall.

How the Child Will Gain. Encourage children to paint cards, make raffia mats in gay Old Mirrors.

AND WHAT TO DO WITH THEM.

Despite their one-time vogue, the modern housewife has, seemingly, no use for overmantels and other large mirrors, while even second-hand dealers look askance at these no longer popular household relics.

This being the case, it behoves those who own either or both, to think out ways and means of using them to advantage—elsewhere than over the mantelpiece.

So why not fix that high overmantel which originally stood on the drawingroom mantelpiece over that carved oak chest in the hall. The combination would be ideal, for the chest opens and is far roomier and more useful than any ordinary hall table. It would also act as a hall seat, when necessary, while the overmantel itself would serve not only as a mirror for visitors and household alike, but would incidentally about double the apparent size of your comparatively small hall.

The diningroom overmantel may also present a difficulty, once that nice set of genuine willow plates has taken its place—so what about placing it upright (if it happened to be long and narrow) on a bracket about twelve inches from the floor, across that otherwise rather unsightly corner just at the bend of the staircase? A fairly long mirror at just such an angle can and does prove a veritable blessing, as you can very soon prove for yourself.

colours, and work coarse canvas in brilliant wools. There is method in such madness. It teaches the child self-dependence early, besides cultivating his inherent desires for colour and decoration. Moreover, such occupations can relieve the burden of a harassed mother or Nana seeking something to interest the children.

FRIDAY, MARCH 1, 1929

REMEMBERING THE DEAD.

An example which we should like to see more generally followed is provided by a local resident who has forwarded us a donation of five dollars, to be devoted to charity in memory of the late Mr.
H. P. White, instead of spending the money on a wreath. By the wish of the donor, the sum is being added to the fund for the relief of distressed British miners and their families. So eminently sensible is the thought which inspires this action that we would once again appeal to the public to refrain from wasting money in floral tributes which only last a day or so, and, instead, to allot to some charitable cause the amounts which would otherwise be spent in the manner indicated. There are many deserving charitable organisations in Hongkong which could do with increased support, and the money from this source would, in the course of a year,
come to quite a substantial sum.
Recently, it was reported from Shanghai that a resident had expressed in his will a desire that any of his friends who wished to pay a tribute to his memory should do so by making contributions to Masonic charities in which he was keenly interested, instead of sending wreaths to his funeral. The wish was gratified when he passed away, and the cause of charity benefited very considerably as a consequence.

As newspaper people, we have seen sufficient of the manner in which this business in wreaths is carried on to realise the utter futility of it all. To take yesterday as an example—there were two funerals last evening, and the demand for wreaths so far outstripped the supply of green leaves that the sellers were reduced to wrapping cabbage leaves round bamboo in order to provide a basis for the wreaths! It is said, too, that after the wreaths have rested for a day or so on the graves, the Wyndham Street flower-sellers sometimes manage to get hold of them again and utilise the framework for others later on. Another story that we have heard is that it occasionally happens that wreaths for which orders have been sent, and money paid, are never sent to the Valley, as requested. Whether these things are true or not, we do say that this blatant commercialising of wreath-selling, with its frequent attendant haggling over prices, is about the last thing that any reasonably-minded individual would care to have associated with his passing. All this is apart from the tremendous amounts that are wasted every year on this foolish form of remembrance. Hundreds of dollars were probably spent in this manner yesterday. It is out of no disrespect to the memory of departed friends that we write thus;

rather the reverse, for the alternative method of bearing them
in mind by donations to charity strikes us as being more in keeping with the occasion. There may be those who would not wish to see funeral ceremonies marked by an entire absence of floral tributes;
in that case, the wreaths could surely be confined to those sent by the near relatives of the deceased.
All of us have seen what happens when there is an unusually large number of wreaths sent—how they get thrown about and are then carried to the graveside in batches, there to be carelessly tossed on the ground until the final rites are concluded. By that time, some of them are scarcely recognisable as wreaths, whilst the personal cards are more often than not entirely missing.

There are other aspects of the matter which could be dilated upon, such as the "obstruction" caused by the wreath-makers in cluttering up our pavements when coping with rush orders, but sufficient has been written to suggest the desirability of an end being put to this sordid business. Let us remember those who have departed, by all means.
But let our remembrance find some better medium than the enrichment of those who look at a funeral merely from the standpoint of the amount of money
it will bring to them.

The War Office.

No long or very serious argument, one way or the other, is likely to be aroused by the movement in the House of Commons for changing the nomenclature of the War Office, and the designation of the Minister concerned therewith.
Briefly, five Conservative members, to whom the word "War" apparently gives offence, have expressed a desire that the War Office be known in future as the Office of Military Defence, and Sir Laming Worthington-Evans as the Secretary of State for Military Defence. If we remember rightly, a similar proposal has been engaging the attention of a few French politicians for some little time, though no great headway seems to have been made. For our own part, we feel the purpose of the desired change is not sufficiently important to justify the loss of a crisp and vigorous term, even though it may not be one of exactness. No-one suffers under the impression that the administrative official controlling the branch of Government concerned devotes his attention to the organisation, shall we say, of war, any more than there exists a belief that the Admiralty is a Board of Admirals of the Fleet. There can be no ambiguity for the simple reason that the functions of the War Office and the Minister for War have always been well understood. Those who argue the other way will not, of course, concern themselves with this aspect of the question. Their point, as we understand it, is that the word "war" should be anathema to right-thinking people, and should, therefore, be removed from official expression. It seems little more than a fad. We do suggest indeed that they should not be mollified until a substitute has been evolved which is much more graceful and mellifluous than "the Office of Military Defence."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

[To The Editor of Hongkong
Telegraph.]

Sir,—In reply to four questions put forward by "W.G." in your columns last night, kindly permit me to submit the following:

1. Christian Science and faith-healing as it is generally understood have nothing whatever in common. A correct understanding of what Christian Science is may be gained by a study of the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy and other of her writings. These books may be borrowed or purchased at the Christian Science Reading Room in the Church edifice on Macdonnell Road.

2 & 3. Information regarding Christian Science practitioners may be found in any current numbers of The Christian Science Journal.

4. Information with regard to compensation of practitioners may be found in the Church Manual of
The First Church of Christ Scientist, in Boston, Mass.; by Mary Baker Eddy, (also available at the Reading Room). Christian Scientists receive compensation for their services, just as Jesus and his disciples did. Is not the workman worthy of his hire? A very large percentage of Christian Science healing is done without compensation.—Your, etc.,

51 COMMON ERRORS IN BRIDGE AND HOW TO CORRECT THEM by W.W. Wentworth

11. OVERLOOKING OPPORTUN- ITY TO RUPE

The Bidding: South opens with one spade and all pass.

Deciding the Play: West leads King of hearts. How should Declarer plan to play?

The Error: Declarer captures the first trick with Ace of hearts and then draws opponents' trumps
by playing Ace, King and Queen of spades in that order. After that Declarer makes Ace of diamonds, King of diamonds and Ace of clubs and then gives opponents

the lead by playing 8 of clubs on the next round. Opponents proceed to win two heart tricks and two club tricks. Declarer captures the remaining tricks but sacrifices game and excellent opportunity to score a grand slam.

The Correct Method: Declarer sees that game is virtually assured and decides to try for a grand slam after capturing the first trick with the Ace of hearts. Declarer plays 5 of hearts which is ruffed in Dummy. After that 3 of spades is played and overtaken in the closed hand with Ace of spades. Now 7 of hearts is placed and ruffed in Dummy. Ace of diamonds and King of diamonds win two tricks after which 7 of diamonds is played and trumped by Declarer.
Trumps are now drawn and a small club is led to Ace of clubs in Dummy after which Dummy's remaining diamonds win tricks,
the losing clubs being discarded on time. Barring a freak distribution of the cards this method of playing scores a grand slam.

The Principle: When short-sult-ed in Dummy, seek to convert losers into winning tricks by utilizing Dummy's small trumps.

The Very Idea!

Roast whale has been introduced to Liverpool, and is being served in substantial steaks. Several enterprising firms are importing it from New Zealand, and finding a ready sale.

Edible whale retails at the low price of from 3d. to 6d. per pound.
It tastes, when roasted, not unlike salt beef, and is not tough, although delicate palates may find it rather coarse.

MURDER OF OLD CARETAKER.

WARNING GIVEN BY DOG'S BARKING.

WORK OF ROBBERS.

The barking of a dog in a neighbouring cottage led to the discovery of what appears to be a dastardly murder of a lonely caretaker, employed to look after a cottage in old Kowloon Tong. Brief details are given on another page.

According to information given to the police, two farmers, working on the Luk Fung Sam garden, were attracted by the incessant barking of a dog. Fearing that something had gone wrong in the adjoining farm, the two men set out to investigate the cause of the animal's behaviour.

On arriving at 211 Cottage, old Kowloon Tong, they found the body of the caretaker lying on the ground in the kitchen. There was a cord tied around the man's neck and a big wound on his head. He was not dead, however, and the police were immediately communicated with.

Despite the utmost despatch, the police arrived on the scene to find the man dead. Robbery appears to have been the motive, but it would seem that the robbers stole nothing more than a few pieces of clothing and an old blanket.

MOTOR BUS TICKET DISPUTE.

REFERENCE TO PEAK TRAM TICKET-HOLDERS.

"A LOT OF DIFFERENCE"

"There is a lot of difference between people who live on the Peak and people who come before your Worship," remarked Sub-Inspector Stimson, at the Kowloon Magistrate's court this morning, when prosecuting a Chinese on a charge of travelling on a Kowloon bus without paying his fare.

Opening the case for the prosecution, Sub-Inspector Stimson said that the case was the usual one of trying to avoid payment on a bus. The defendant, he said, boarded a bus at Kowloon City shortly after midnight on Thursday, and when asked for his ticket by the conductor, informed the man that he was a monthly ticket-holder. The conductor went away but when the inspector boarded the bus he asked to be shown the ticket.

Lost Ticket.

The defendant told the inspector that he had lost it, but his number was 94. He gave the man his name but was taken to the Company's offices to verify his statement. On examination of the Company's register, it was found that ticket No. 94 was not in the name of the defendant.

The conductor gave evidence, and, in reply to the defendant, admitted that the latter had had a ticket for last month but had not purchased one for this month.

The defendant—To-day is only the first of the month.

His Worship remarked that it seemed rather hard to be prosecuted for not having a ticket so soon after midnight on the first of the month.

Sub-Inspector Stimson replied that it was not for failing to renew his ticket that the defendant was charged. It was for not having any ticket at all.

On the Peak.

His Worship intimated that every time tickets were issued on the Peak tram, there was sure to be somebody who could not show his ticket.

Sub-Inspector Stimson—There is a difference between people who travel on the Peak tram and people who come before your Worship.

The ticket inspector was called, but said that he had never known the defendant to have a ticket. If the conductor had said the defendant had travelled on a monthly ticket, then he must have been using somebody else's ticket.

Witness said that when the defendant was told that he would be arrested, he (defendant) admitted that he had no ticket and offered to pay, but the management refused to accept the money. The defendant intimated that the master of his shop had purchased a monthly ticket for him, but the ticket was not in his name. The witness replied that nobody could travel on a ticket which was in the name of another person. His Worship adjourned the case till Monday for the defendant's master to be called.

BAL MASQUE.

BRISK DEMAND FOR TICKETS.

There is every indication that the forthcoming Fancy Dress and Masked Ball, which is to be held on March 8th. at the Peninsula Hotel, will prove a most successful event. Parties are already being arranged, and it is whispered that some striking costumes and colour schemes will be seen.

In response to requests, the Committee has decided to issue special floor tickets which will entitle holders to dancing and supper. These will be sold at $5 each.

The reason for these special tickets is that some residents have expressed the desire to arrive in their respective disguises after dinner. The ordinary tickets which include dinner, dancing and supper are available at $7.50 each.

It is quite rare for Hongkong to hold a social event which carries through until the early hours of the morning, with the jolly time promised, even 2 a.m. will probably find the majority of revellers wishing for more. It is quite evident that a most colourful spectacle will be provided, and in view of the demand for tickets, early purchase is advisable.

KOWLOON MEETING THE CLUB AT KOWLOON.

CHINESE PROSPECTS.

[BY "WANDERER."]

The return match between Kowloon and the Club will provide the soccer attraction for the European community to-morrow. Both sides are practically at full strength, and the sudden improvement of the Club has rendered the match of additional interest.

Among the sides struggling for league honours, Chinese Athletic have to negotiate a formidable hurdle, while South China are not to be so severely tested. The fixture list, together with grounds, times of kick-off and officials appointed, is as follows:

Senior Division.

Chinese Ath. v. Navy, Club, 4.15. Capt. Austin.
Kowloon v. H.K.F.C.—Kowloon, 4.15.—Mr. Evans.
S. China v. Recreation—Caroline Hill, 4.15.—Mr. Holland.
R.A. v. K.O.S.B.—St. Joseph's, 4.15.—Mr. Atkinson.

Junior Division.

St. Joseph's v. Queen's—St. John's, 2.45.—Mr. Rider.
R.A. v. K.O.S.B.—Sookunpoo, 2.45.—Mr. Critchett.
S. China v. R.A.F.—Caroline Hill, 2.45.—Mr. Gibbon.
Kowloon v. Navy—Kowloon, 2.45.—Mr. Anderson.
Eastern v. China Ath.—Club, 2.45.—Mr. Harwell.

The Civilian Clash.

While from the point of view of importance to league honours, the match between Chinese Athletic and the Royal Navy will provide the most interesting game, there is certain to be a big crowd of Europeans at the Kowloon F.C. ground when their rivals, the Hongkong F.C., are the visitors.

This is the return match, the game at Happy Valley having resulted in a draw. Kowloon are not at full strength but McKelvie and Bliss make welcome returns to the side which will be capable of making the Club go all the way even if victory is not secured. At the time of writing the Club team is not to hand, but it is not likely that any radical change will be made from the side which forced a draw with the Borderers last week. A keen struggle with teams all out to the end is fairly certain. On current form, the Club may manage to force a draw, though I fancy Kowloon to win.

The Advance of the Navy.

The advance of the Navy, unfortunately too late to seriously threaten the leaders, will at least have the effect of bringing down their "averages" presuming the Navy are able to command the same eleven.

The Athletic, who provide the opposition for the championship, but I am expecting them to meet with a rebuff on this occasion. The only trouble with the Navy is that their forwards are not smart goal-getters, and this deficiency may cause an upset.

South China to Win?

South China should experience little difficulty in defeating the Club de Recreation, who are sadly out of form. The latter's forwards are not getting well together, largely, I suppose, because of the frequent changes in the half-back line and lack of adequate support. South China gave a poor display against a poor team last week and won 7-1. They won't expect to win by anything like that margin this week, but should add two points to their total.

Army Meeting.

The only other Senior game is being played at Sookunpoo between the Royal Artillery and the K.O.S.B. The Borderers should make up some of their lost ground in this game. In the Junior League there is no match of leading importance, the leaders all being matched against clubs in the bottom half of the table. The Navy, K.O.S.B., R.A.F., Queen's and Chinese Athletic should win their games.

Among the teams for to-morrow are:

Messrs. Guest & Cotton 2nd
Messrs. Stokes & Pilgrim 3rd
No fewer than 345 games were played in the course of the game, all with the same balls, Dunlop seamless hard-court ball, presented by the Hongkong branch of the firm through their manager, Mr. S. G. Hayes.

If sufficient entries are obtained, a Ladies' Singles Handicap Tournament on the same lines will be held on Sunday, March 3rd.

BOXING.

SHARKEY DEFEATS YOUNG STRIBLING.

Miami, Feb. 27. The attendance at the Sharkey-Stribling contest was 20,000 and the receipts $20,000, so apparently Dempsey's first promotion venture has been successful. The fight, however, was more a rough house than a boxing match. Stribling won the first two rounds, but the Bostonian solved his opponent's style and thereafter neither gave quarter. There were wild swings, many dangerously low. Stribling was spitting blood in the third round but, thrice with clean lefts to the jaw nearly felled Sharkey, who, however, scored more frequently and gained the verdict.—Reuter's American Service.

Borderers Win.

The results of the junior contests in the United Services football competition, yesterday, were as follows: K.O.S.B. 4, S.L.I. 1. H.M.S. Bruce 7, R.A.F. 1. R.A. 2, H.M.S. Herald 0. Playing at Happy Valley the K.O.S.B. beat S.L.I. after being a goal down, by four goals to one. Hicks gave the S.L.I. the lead after five minutes play. Crawley levelled up for the Borderers, and Stephens and Craig added goals for the Borderers before the interval. Resuming, the Somersets played up strongly. Before the final whistle sounded Crawley scored, the K.O.S.B. winning by four goals to one.

On the Navy ground at Happy Valley, the R.A. beat the Herald by two goals to nil. Just before the interval Harrie scored for the Gunners. Resuming, the Herald made a strong attack but shooting was wild. Taylor broke through and alliped to Allan who scored the Gunners' second goal. The Bruce v. R.A.F. match was played on the Navy No. 2 ground, the Bruce winning by three goals to one. The R.A.F. goals, Jarvis, kept his charge intact against several raids by the sailors. Murray gave the sailors the lead and before the interval, Caponer put through his own goal. On resuming, the Alfrans attacked strongly but failed to beat Finnley. The sailors added to their score through Taylor, and just before the final whistle sounded Punkett scored for the R.A.F.

LATE MR. SHORT.

THE FUNERAL YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

The funeral of Mr. R. H. Short, who died on Wednesday last, took place yesterday afternoon and was largely attended by his friends and colleagues. The remains were interred at the Protestant Cemetery, the Rev. G. T. Waldegrave officiating at the graveside.

Amongst those present were: Mr. Allan Cameron, Oriental Manager of the C.P.R., Mr. L. E. N. Ryan, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Monaghan, Capt. C. Thwaites, Mr. E. Stone, Mr. C. Thwaites, as well as Messrs. Nicholas Tse Chin, representing the firm of Tak Kee and Co., L. Gomes (Wm. C. Jack and Co.), Leung Yuen Wo, Chairman of the Associated Union of Chinese seamen, Mr. A. Gutierrez, Mr. W. C. Innes, and many others. Mrs. Short was also present at the funeral.

SAMOAN DANCERS COMING.

"The Samoan Dancers," who open a brief season at the Star Theatre on Sunday, March 3rd.

LAWN TENNIS.

FINCHER BROTHERS HAVE AN EASY MATCH.

There were only two matches in the Open Championship Events on the Hongkong Cricket Club ground yesterday afternoon when the tournament was resumed after a short break. Both games were in the Doubles event the Fincher brothers and Lieut. Hale and Rodmond being the successful competitors to enter the second round.

Owen Hughes and Marton gave the Fincher brothers little opposition, losing in straight sets with only five games to their credit. The Kowloon pair showed considerable improvement on their last year's form, the younger of the two brothers being more reliable. They should not encounter very much difficulty in their next match but it is unlikely that they will reach the fourth round as the Rumjahn will in all probability be their opponents in the third.

Lieut. Hale and Rodmond were just a shade more consistent than Ho Wal-hing and Chiu Tsun-chu. The former couple won in four sets, the match seldom reaching championship standard.

Yesterday's Results.

Yesterday's results were: Open Doubles.—E. G. and E. F. Fincher beat H. Owen Hughes and O. E. C. Marton 6-2, 6-2, 6-1. Lieut. Hale and F. A. Rodmond beat Ho Wal-hing and Chiu Tsun-chu 6-3, 6-4, 6-5, 7-5.

Club Championship.—R. K. Valen-tine beat J. A. Summers, 8-6, 6-4. Handicap Doubles.—H. J. Armstrong and J. G. Lawrie (ows 4/5) beat C. A. L. Plummer and J. S. McEachran (ows 3/5) 7-5, 6-4.

To-day's Games.

The following is the programme for this afternoon: Open Singles.—Lai Kwong-tsun v. Y. Sanki; Luk Ding-cheung v. Chiu Tsun-chu.
Open Doubles.—Ng Sze-kwong and Ho Ka-lau v. Y. Yvanovich and C. Barretto; Major Lucas and Dr. Tottemham v. Horace Lo and Lu Tai-cheuk.
Club Championship.—H. Owen Hughes v. J. Barrow.
Handicap Singles "A."—Very Rev. Swann (ows 2/5) v. Lieut. D. Smith (rec. 2/5).
Handicap Singles "B."—A. H. Penn (rec. 2/5) v. R. P. Lonsdale (ows 15/2).
Handicap Doubles.—T. H. King and Major C. Willson (Ser.) v. C. W. E. Bishop and W. Woodward (rec. 4/5).

FILIPINOS & AMERICA.

MR. STIMSON INTERVIEWED AT SHANGHAI.

Shanghai, Feb. 28. Governor General Stimson arrived this afternoon from Manila on the President Pierce en route to the United States. He refused either to deny or confirm his appointment as Secretary of State. He summed up his year's work in the Philippines as follows: "The restoration of the confidence of the Filipino people in America." Mr. Stimson will confer with Mr. MacMurray, who arrived from Nanking this morning, before leaving Shanghai. Mr. Stimson and Mr. MacMurray are among the guests at a banquet being given to-night by Dr. C. T. Wang.—Reuter.

The Fanling Hunt Point to Point, which takes place on Sunday, is timed to commence at 11 a.m. from Pett's Bungalow.

Much Improved. London, Feb. 28. Sir Austen Chamberlain is much better, and it is understood he is leaving for Geneva on Saturday.—Reuter.

BANK PRESIDENT
SUED.*MR. INSTONE BREWER
DEFENDANT IN ACTION.*BOARD & LODGING.

Mr. Instone Brewer, President of the Instone Banking Corporation was the defendant in an action at the Summary Court yesterday afternoon when Mr. R. Simmons, general works manager of the Hongkong Engineering and Construction Co. Ltd., St. George's Building, claimed $407, being $375 board and lodging for the defendant and his wife at No. 4 Century Crescent for June 1928, and $32 being portion of wages due to a wash amah for March, April May and June last year at the rate of eight dollars a month.

Mr. Strellett said the claim was as simple as one could wish and it was only when one turned to the defence—or rather to the series of defences—that he thought he was not putting it too high when he said it was one of the most remarkable series of defences ever put before the Summary Court.

Plaintiff came from Singapore in January, 1928, to be works manager of the Hongkong Engineering and Construction Company. The defendant is president and controlling executive of the Instone Banking Corporation, an institution having an office in Hongkong and branches elsewhere.

When Mr. and Mrs. Simmons arrived in Hongkong they stayed at St. George's Hotel and later decided to start a home of their own. They were able to find suitable accommodation at 4 Century Crescent on the lower middle levels. It was a large house, fairly well furnished, but requiring additions. After inspecting the house they found that it was too large for their needs alone and decided to get into touch with another small family with a view to their sharing the house.

An advertisement was inserted in a local newspaper and a letter was received, signed by Mrs. Brewer. Mrs. Brewer met Mrs. Simmons at the beginning of February last year. Mrs. Brewer saying that she thought the house would be suitable. It was arranged that she should pay another visit with Mr. Brewer, when terms could be discussed. A few days later there was a general conversation between all four and it was arranged that Mr. and Mrs. Brewer should pay $375 per month.

Payment for an Amah.

Mr. and Mrs. Brewer went into the house on March 1 and were given the use of a bedroom and the general use of the rest of the house. The wife of the plaintiff was then more or less running the domestic side of the house and the first difficulty arose in April. Defendant and his wife were making use of a common amah for the purpose of having clothes mended and Mrs. Simmons considered that such duties for a double household were too much and suggested extra payment.

Mrs. Simmons left for Singapore on April 15 and at that time, to all intents and purposes, she intended to remain for a few weeks away from Hongkong. For various reasons, however, she remained away until the end of the year.

In connexion with his business defendant had to make frequent visits to Canton and elsewhere and in this connexion made considerable reductions from his bill from time to time. About the middle of March certain complaints were made by the defendant out of which arose a counter claim. When difficulties arose the defendant wrote a letter to Mr. Simmons in which he set down the alternatives for the future of the household.

Later Mr. Simmons received a visit from Mrs. Brewer and a Mrs. Wheeler, when the plaintiff suggested that Mr. and Mrs. Brewer should take over the house. At that interview Mrs. Brewer said the only thing to do was to leave on June 30. Plaintiff agreed to that, not seeing Mr. Brewer at that time because he was sick.

Payment Not Made.

Mr. and Mrs. Brewer left on June 30 without any further discussion. On July 5 Mr. Simmons rang up Mr. Brewer and asked for payment for board and lodging for June. He was told that the amount was going to be set off against a claim he had on Mr. Simmons. Mr. Simmons said that defendant had no claim and that he would refer the matter of payment for June to his solicitor.

Plaintiff's solicitor wrote the usual letter of demand on July 5 and a reply was received to that which, said Mr. Strellett, formed the subject matter of three libel actions. Mr. Strellett said that defendant, in a letter written in August, said his letter of July 7 was for the purpose of acquainting the other side with his defence. The letter of July 7 referred to a certain agreement, which turned out to be a letter written by the defendant's wife while the negotiations were in progress.

Dealing briefly with the defences as set out in the case, Mr. Strellett said the first suggested that plaintiff should be non-suited on the ground that the real parties to the contract were not the plaintiff, but the plaintiff's wife and the defendant's wife, and that the agreement was supported by the fact that both Mrs. Simmons and Mrs. Brewer happened to be possessed of separate estates and further that the contract was in respect of separate estates.

That defence, said Mr. Strellett, covered the defendant in the event of its being shown that most of the arrangements were made by his wife.

Other Defences.

The second defence was that the agreement arrived at on June 20 was confirmed on June 25. Mr. Strellett said it amounted to a set-off for board and lodging by reason of the claim made in the counter claim to the action.

The third defence was one of abatement in respect of breach of contract regarding the use of a car, that its use was withdrawn without discussion, and that this withdrawal resulted in damage to the defendant.

Mr. Strellett said it had been suggested on the other side that Mr. and Mrs. Simmons were permanently and not temporarily separated.

The defence supported that by saying that certain furniture in the house had been moved, that Mr. Simmons had invited lady friends to the house and that he had had people there for tennis.

In evidence, Mrs. Simmons said the arrangement was made between herself, Mr. Simmons and Mr. and Mrs. Brewer in the course of a mutual conversation. The question of the use of the car was not discussed. Mr. and Mrs. Brewer took up residence on March 1, having the use of the largest bedroom, it having been agreed that they should pay $375 per month. As a furnished house the premises had a number of shortcomings and Mr. Simmons paid for articles like linen, cutlery and crockery.

Visit to Singapore.

Mrs. Simmons said she had property of her own in Singapore and it was in connexion with it that she left Hongkong for Singapore on April 14 or 15 by the Mongolia. She expected to finish her business in two months, but did not in fact return to Hongkong until the end of the year.

There were two other bedrooms in the house which were not used and the upkeep of the house was about $1,100 a month. At first they thought that $375 would cover half the cost of the establishment, but it did not and she considered the possibility of letting the other two rooms. She did not authorise Mrs. Brewer to take in further boarders, however.

With regard to the amah, she objected to the additional sewing and witness suggested to Mrs. Brewer that she should pay $4 a month per head extra.

In reply to Mr. Strellett, who said he was forced to put the question in view of what had been suggested by the other side, Mrs. Simmons said she had never been separated from her husband, and that when she went to Singapore she intended to return in two months. She had never done anything to suggest that she would not return.

Use of a Car.

In reply to further questions Mrs. Simmons said the car was placed at the disposal of Mr. and Mrs. Brewer to take them to the city in the morning, bring them back to the house at tiffin and again at night.

Mr. Brewer: When the Brewers first came to the house was it made clear that you hoped to get other boarders?—We hoped so.

Did you at any time ask Mrs. Brewer to help in securing other residents?—No. We thought of having a bachelor and not another married couple.

Did you ask Mrs. Brewer to see the secretary of the Helena May Institute with regard to getting someone?—No. Mrs. Brewer suggested that.

Did Mrs. Brewer tell you that she had done that?—No.

You never gave Mrs. Brewer authority to get other residents?—No.

Mr. Brewer suggested that Mrs. Simmons might have gone to Singapore on the Malwa. Mrs. Simmons said she went on the Mongolia. Mr. Justice Wood commented "I think you will find that right Mr. Brewer. I was booked on her."

Shopping Expeditions.

In reply to further questions Mrs. Simmons said that two dollars were deducted for each day Mr. Brewer was away from Hongkong.

Mr. Simmons gave corroborative evidence, saying that he withdrew the use of the car about June 14 as Mr. and Mrs. Brewer were abusing it. The consumption of gasoline had gone up and he was told by the chauffeur that the car had been used for shopping and visiting expeditions. Witness said he was surprised when payment for board for June was refused on the ground that the defendant had claims on him.

Mr. Strellett said he had a letter written by Mrs. Simmons to her husband but it was unusual to put such a document in. Permission

KOWLOON SCHOOLS.THE CONVERSION OF PARK SIDE RESIDENCE.

The Finance Committee of the Legislative Council, at a meeting held yesterday, approved supplementary expenditure amounting to $85,320.

Item No. 6: Public Works, Extraordinary: Kowloon, Buildings, Conversion of Park Side for School purposes and furnishing $9,000.

Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga:—In conversion of Park Side, I have looked through Hanard for last year and have been unable to discover any discussion in connexion with it in Finance Committee. I should be glad if the Chairman would be kind enough to say whether Park Side is required to supplement the present accommodation at the Central British School.

The Chairman:—It is nothing to do with the Central British School, if I remember correctly. It has to do with the school which occupied the military building at Gun Club Hill. On the arrival of bigger military forces in the Colony, the military gave us notice to quit their school and we had to make other arrangements. What we did was to take Park Side, which was the former railway manager's residence, and convert it into a school for the Kowloon Junior School.

Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga:—I feel that in connexion with the question of Government Schools in Kowloon, we ought to have some settled policy in the provision of new schools. There are already two very large schools, one for girls and one for boys, and a third is already planned and will probably be commenced this year. It appears to me that the Government is lagging about 25 or 30 years behind the times in regard to school provision in Kowloon.

The Chairman:—I do not quite follow you. You say that two schools are already in existence?

Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga:—Yes, established by religious societies, and a third one is about to begin, and yet the Government is satisfied with buildings 25 years old, which were presented as a gift by a private resident to the Government.

The Chairman:—What is the building given to the Government 25 years ago?

Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga:—The Kowloon British School was a gift to the Government by Sir Robert Ho Tung. I should like to see a much more advanced policy adopted by the Government.

The Chairman:—I am afraid we cannot deal with the question of Government policy in Finance Committee. We must stick to the agenda. The point is, will the Finance Committee agree to the vote for $9,000 for the conversion of Park Side to take the place of the building formerly occupied by the Kowloon Junior School? I cannot go into the policy of the Government in regard to Government Schools in Kowloon.

Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga:—It was only just an expression of opinion on my part, that a tinkering policy is no good for Kowloon at the present time.

The Chairman:—I think you know, don't you, that other schemes are under consideration?

The vote was approved.

Item No. 14: Public Works, Extraordinary: New Kowloon, Communications, widening Castle Peak Road to 60 feet width and filling in areas at Cheung Sha Wan, $30,000.

Hon. Sir Henry Pollock:—Does this sum of $30,000 complete the work of this section?

The Director of Public Works:—Yes.

Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga:—Has this to do with filling in the garbage dump at Yau-matli?

The Director of Public Works:—No, it is a different site.

was given for an extract to be read from the letter indicating Mrs. Simmons' arrangement with regard to extra payment for the amah.

After questioning plaintiff, Mr. Brewer announced that he would withdraw his number one defence.

Mrs. D. M. Wheeler was called by the defence and stated that on June 25 she went with Mrs. Brewer to see the plaintiff. Mrs. Brewer asked if he had come to any arrangement and he replied that everything had been settled and Mr. and Mrs. Brewer would leave at the end of that month. Mr. Brewer was called to corroborate this evidence.

In evidence, Mr. Brewer stated that it was agreed that payment for June should not be made, in consideration of the fact that he and Mrs. Brewer should go out at the end of the month without notice, which entailed hardship, and that they should agree to waive a claim against him as landlord.

Mr. Justice Wood reserved judgment, adjourning the hearing of a counter claim sine die.

ROBBERY TRIAL.THE CASTLE ROAD SENSATION.

The case opened before Major C. Willson at the Central Magistrate's Court yesterday afternoon, of the prisoners arrested in connexion with the recent armed robbery at No. 10, Castle Road.

In the course of the proceedings it was stated that Mrs. Wong Lung-shi, an aged lady, who lives at the house, was in a state of collapse as the results of her experience, and had since died. Money and jewellery stolen from her amounted to no less than $42,000 in value, of which only a fractional part had been recovered. The "swag" was known to the police to have been taken to Canton for disposal.

When the case opened yesterday, the first step by the prosecution was to withdraw the case, on account of the lack of evidence, against two of the accused. They also applied for the discharge of a third man, named Fung Pun, in order to use him as King's witness.

An interesting off-shoot of the robbery case was then seen in the charging of Fung Pun with maliciously damaging a pair of handcuffs, the property of the Government.

Story of Escape.

Behind the fresh charge lies an interesting story, which has to do with the attempt which one of the other prisoners had made to escape from police custody. It will be recalled that one of the first arrests made by the police in connexion with the robbery was of a man named Ho San, which took place at Yau-matli. While being taken through Woosung Street, the prisoner made a successful dash from the custody of a detective and vanished.

Acting on the very natural assumption that he would be endeavouring to escape into Chinese territory, the police entrained for Sumchun and intercepted the escaping man as he got out at the Station. They also arrested another man who was accompanying the first, and it was this prisoner, Fung Pun, who was now being charged before the Court with maliciously damaging Government property.

It appears that after his successful get-away, Ho San went to the house of his friend in a village near Ho Mun Tin, and begged Fung Pun to free him from his handcuffs. To accomplish this, Fung Pun had to use a heavy chisel and hammer, but finally Ho San was left unencumbered.

A New Pair.

Detective Inspector Shannon told the Magistrate yesterday that the handcuffs were a new pair which had been rendered useless by the damage wrought by Fung Pun. To replace them the Crown Agents would have to expend some $25 of the public money, it was indicated.

His Worship decided to fine the culprit $20, while ordering him to refund the cost of a new pair. Failure to meet the amount would mean a sentence of five weeks' hard labour for the accused.

Fung Pun was then held back in Court for the purpose of his giving evidence as King's witness in the case against Ho San and four others on charges arising from the armed robbery.

In his opening, Detective Inspector Shannon said that on the afternoon of January 31, a party of armed men went to No. 10, Castle Road, which lies off Castle Road in a quarter inhabited by wealthy Chinese.

Well Planned Visit.

Apparently they had timed their coming for a suitable hour, and when they arrived the only inmates left in the house—a three-story building—were an old lady, Mrs. Wong Lung-shi, her 11-year-old granddaughter, and two amahs.

On obtaining admission into the building by means which would be later indicated in the course of the case, they first seized one of the amahs, and went into the second floor, where the old lady and her grand-child were. Strings and gags were then brought into requisition and after the victims had been secured, the men proceeded to look for money and jewellery.

Without hesitation, they made straight for the safe, and, using a key which they had taken from the old lady, took away all the contents. Other receptacles for money and jewellery were similarly rifled, and when they left, the gang took away with them "swag" estimated to amount to $42,557.

Upon the departure of the robbers, an alarm was sent through to the Central Police Station, not far away. When the police arrived at the house, they found the front room in the second floor, which was that occupied by the old lady, in a considerable state of disarray. Boxes which had contained jewellery or money were found strewn about the floor. The old lady was in a state of collapse. She had since died.

STIFF SENTENCES.AUSTRALIAN AGITATION RECALLED.

Melbourne, Feb. 28. The trial has concluded of five men charged in connexion with the bombing in a Greek club last December, during troubles arising from the resentment of the waterside workers at the employment of volunteer (largely non-British) labour. Fifteen persons were injured in the bombing.

Three of the prisoners, O'Connell, McIver and Delaney, were sentenced to fifteen years' hard labour each, the other two being acquitted.—Reuter.

It was found that a cook-amah employed at the house, a middle-aged woman named Wong Ho, was not above suspicion, and she was in the end detained. She now appeared as the third defendant in the case.

The police also carried out a raid at Yau-matli, where a woman was found who gave information which led to the arrest of Ho San in Des Voeux Road West as he was hurrying to a shop known to the police.

The two other prisoners were subsequently found in brothels at Yau-matli. On one of them the police recovered a pair of gold ear-rings and on the other, a finger-ring, both of which had been since identified as part of the property taken away.

The other articles and money had not been recovered, information which had reached the police indicated that these had been taken to Canton for disposal.

Detective-Inspector Shannon asked his Worship to take careful note of the open grill of the house, which had been specially photographed on account of its importance in relation to the case against the woman.

His Worship expressed a desire to inspect the scene of the robbery and the case was adjourned with this object.

THE CENTRAL BANK.BRANCH TO BE OPENED UP IN HONGKONG.

The Board of Directors of the Kwangtung Central Bank has appointed Mr. Ng Ka-shing as Chief Manager, and Mr. Chung Kai-cheung as Assistant Manager of the Branch Central Bank in Hongkong with instructions to proceed with its formation as soon as possible; says the Canton Gazette. It will be recalled that for the organization of this branch bank, Mr. Yip Ching, Assistant Manager of the Central Bank in Canton, was sent to Hongkong some time ago to seek suitable premises and offices formerly used by a French Bank were secured at a monthly rental of $1,000. These premises have now been repaired and renovated by the owner, and are ready for occupation.

It was originally intended to open the Hongkong branch at an earlier date, but reorganization of the main office here delayed the formation of the branch.

A NEW OLYMPIA.PLAN FOR ALTERATIONS AND EXTENSIONS.

London, Feb. 28. Olympia, the largest exhibition hall in England, passed yesterday into the hands of new owners, who have decided upon plans for further extension and renewal of the building, which will take over a year to complete and will, it is estimated, cost about £2,000,000.

When this work is finished Olympia will, it is stated, be the most up-to-date building of its kind in the world. Extensions will be carried out without interfering with events of the coming season, such as the Royal Tournament, International Horse Show and Motor Show.—British Wireless.

REMARKABLE CURE OF TYPHOID FEVER THROUGH POO ON CHINESE HERBS.

Under Physician's Treatment Two Weeks—Grew Worse—Doctors Insist Removing Boy to Hospital & Give Very Little Hope of Recovery.

Jen's Brooks, son of Mrs. John T. Brooks, 1904 H. Street, Modesto, Calif., U.S.A., suffered with typhoid fever, for two weeks under physician's and nurse's care—grew steadily worse. Mother becomes alarmed over safety of her son and is induced to try the POO ON CHINESE HERBS Treatment. Result—Instant relief for typhoid. Result—Instant relief and absolute cure in short time. Mrs. Brooks said:—

"My boy Jen's was in bed suffering from fever and chills, he was treated by physicians for two weeks with what they called typhoid fever, he could not eat and had severe pains in the stomach; delirious, stomach was bloated; he was kept in ice packs and rubber ice mattresses; and attended by a trained nurse; he did not show any improvement but became worse so other doctors were called in for consultation. They all insisted on removing boy to the hospital and did not give much hope for his recovery."

"I was recommended and insisted upon by Mrs. De Lemos to try the POO ON CHINESE HERBS Treatment, as she had been cured of a complication of diseases by them."

"I made up my mind to give the POO ON CHINESE HERBS a trial; after the first day's treatment the fever was very much reduced and he began to have an appetite and slept well a night."

"After five days' treatment the fever was cured and after a few more treatments the boy was absolutely well and playing around the yard and eating heartily, and was able to go back to school, and feels as well as he ever did."

Mrs. G. A. Bayes says:—"I am Positive That POO ON CHINESE HERBS and Ointment Saved My Child's Eyesight. Because I tried Several Eye Specialists Before Going To POO ON. His Cure Was Simply Wonderful and I Am Very Grateful."

Mrs. G. A. Bayes, 611, Third Street, Modesto Calif., U.S.A., says:—"My little girl, 8 years old, in some way contracted a disease of the eye that was gradually making her blind. I immediately took her to an eye specialist for treatment, but there seemed no way to stop

THE K.R.A. ANNUAL MEETING.

DEVELOPMENT OF WATER-FRONT IMPEDED.

COMMUNAL SERVICE.

Mr. E. Cock presided at the ninth annual general meeting of the Kowloon Residents' Association, which was held at St. Andrews' Church Hall yesterday evening. Mr. Cock stated that the railway company had appropriated half of the waterfront of the Peninsula and had over one and a half million square feet lying idle. "The fact," he said, "obtrudes itself that the railway stands in the way of the best development of Kowloon."

Mr. Tape explained that Mr. Cock the Chairman had attended the funeral of the late Mr. H. P. White and would return to provide as early as possible. In the meantime, Mr. Tape reminded the present that a garden party was being held at the Club de Regalo on March 6 in honour of the Hon. Dr. S. W. Tso and the Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga, on their election to the Legislative Council as the Kowloon representatives. Mr. Tape expressed the hope that every member would make a point of attending. Tickets could be purchased at the Kowloon C.C., the Kowloon F.C., the Y.M.C.A., or from Mr. Mahners.

Mr. Cock arrived a few minutes afterwards and the business of the meeting was commenced.

Chairman's Speech.

The chairman, in proposing the adoption of the annual report and statement of accounts, which have already been published, said:—

In the past twelve months the committee has worked along the lines of its predecessors and we have endeavoured, by constitutional methods, to bring to the notice of controlling powers any matters which we think require redress or any suggestions which can be made for improvement.

Speaking generally, no action is taken by any individual member without the approval of the committee. Now, once a policy has been decided upon, and approval given of action, it would appear to be plain sailing, but a perusal of the correspondence regarding the cutting down of the trees in Nathan Road will show that it is, at times, very difficult to direct our enquiries straight to the concerned department since we may not be aware to which department we should write, and as in the case quoted, we arrive too late.

Star Ferry Approach.

Since 1924 we have made little progress in the matter of improving the Star Ferry approach, and from our experience regarding the trees, we were afraid that if we pursued the ordinary channels, we might become involved in a fruitless correspondence with the Public Works Department and so we asked if we could be given particulars of the proposed layout before we went on to matters connected with it. The Director of Public Works kindly gave the sub-committee an interview and showed us Scheme K—presumably the eleventh. This is an excellent, though rather expensive layout, and we were at a loss to know why it included the cutting away of a considerable amount of ground on the north side of Salisbury Road when, on the face of it, it would be easier and cheaper to work on the south side. It came out that the land on the south side was under the control, and more or less at the disposal, of the railway. So the railway authorities can say, apparently without any regard to public requirements or desires, that a hoarding may be put up and a garage erected, and otherwise their land is inviolate.

Railway Co's Land.

Now, if this is so it is wrong. It is wrong because it causes unnecessary expense and it is wrong because it stops development along the obviously proper lines. The case is made worse when one considers that many more people use the Star Ferry approach than use the railway. The fact obtrudes itself that the railway stands in the way of the best development of Kowloon. It appropriates quite one half of the waterfront of the toe of the Peninsula; it has over one and a half million square feet of valuable land lying idle; it practically prohibits access to the most southerly side and it has plans about three times as extensive as the public plans and which are scarcely used at all.

I can only touch lightly on the question in the time at my disposal. I have been told that the railway is where it is because some day it may be possible to get into the train at Kowloon and get off at Paris. This will be good if it doesn't come too late. If it does come will it matter very much to the traveller whether he embarks at Kowloon Point or Hung Hom. Meantime, China is developing roads and making more and more use of motor transport.

Vision of Future.

What a magnificent motor vehicle terminus the existing railway station would make, and what an excellent solution to the traffic problem we are considering, with a future for exceeding anything that the railway ever had. This in connection with land travel. What of the air? Where will one land in an air liner—and how proceed to the city?

Surely Via Kowloon Point. Is it a bold prophecy that we shall be travelling to Paris by air long before we can do so by railway? Let us try to imagine the traffic some years hence. There will undoubtedly be railway traffic, motor car and air. The first needs a track, the motor vehicle a track of a cheaper nature and one which can be deviated easily, while the air track will be governed by weather conditions. It is likely that air will be the cheapest. It is already the quickest travel for passengers and light valuables. It is likely that the motor car, which has such a hold on the imagination, will hold its own for short trips and for feeding air routes and the railways will be left with the heavy long distance transport.

30 Years Ago.

The lay out of a railway, and location of its termini is governed now by a different set of conditions from those which obtained thirty years ago. Up to thirty three years ago the motor car was limited to a walking pace and was led by a man with a red flag. Thirty years ago no man had flown in a heavier than air machine and scientists could almost prove by Analogy and otherwise that large aeroplanes, like the ostrich, would never fly. So the judgments of thirty years ago, pinning their faith on railways, were right in their time. But their time has passed and the sooner we see this and act upon it the better for us. I have strayed quite considerably from the "Parish Pump."

I read in some of the newspapers that the K.R.A. is representative. This is no new thought. It has been given me both publicly and privately during my year of office. We are, we have always been, just a body of men each with our small stake in the Colony collected together of all nationalities living in Kowloon to forward what we think is for the public good, and I venture to say that even if we only represent ourselves we have a claim on public support.

Council Members Congratulated.

We have not sought to be in the councils of the Empire but we do wish Kowloon to be, and the retiring Presidents in 1924 and 1925 made reference to representatives for Kowloon. I must confess that I thought they were rather progressive at the time and I take the opportunity of congratulating them on their foresight and, I am now speaking on behalf of the K.R.A., I most heartily congratulate them. Mr. Braga and Mr. Dr. Tso on their being made members of the Legislative Council. For those of us who may form the new committee I have the authority to promise them every assistance in our power. Both are members of our Association, and while we hope to preserve our separate entity, we shall keep them fully informed of our activities.

Our full committee consists of eighteen members besides those holding office—our average attendance once a month during the year has been 70 per cent. If the year has not been so fruitful as we have wished we have aimed at the stars even if we have only hit the trees.

I thank you kindly for the confidence and help you have given me.

He concluded by pointing out an error in the statement of accounts. Owing to an omission by the typist, he said, which had been followed by the printer, the sum of $18 should be shown as a subscription for the Government Gazette. The totals, however, were correct.

Mr. E. Wylie seconded, and the proposition was carried.

Officers Elected.

In proposing Mr. C. M. Manners to fill the office of President, the chairman said that Mr. Manners had done work for the Association as secretary in the past and he had stepped into the breach when Mr. Terry left.

Mr. Tape said it gave him great pleasure to second the motion, which was carried.

Mr. Tape proposed that Mr. F. C. Mow Fang be elected Vice-President, saying that he had been a very useful and energetic member of the general committee during the past year. He was a very sound and capable man and had been a resident in Kowloon for many years. The proposition was carried.

Mr. E. Abraham was re-elected hon. treasurer, on the proposition of Mr. Wylie, seconded by Mr.

HARBOURING CASE.

FOUR CHINESE SENTENCED TO TWELVE MONTHS.

Two of four men who were originally arrested in connection with an armed robbery committed at a match at Kang Hau, Shatin, on December 9, last year, appeared before Mr. T. S. Whyte Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday on charges of harbouring two children who were kidnapped during the outrage.

It will be recalled that at the last Criminal Sessions of the Supreme Court, four men stood charged with complicity in the robbery. The jury found two of the men guilty and returned verdicts in favour of the others who were accordingly acquitted, the guilty men being sentenced to seven years' hard labour.

On the two discharged men leaving the Court they were arrested and yesterday produced at the Kowloon Magistracy on charges of harbouring. A man and his wife who occupied the first floor of No. 606, Shanghai Street, where one of the children was found, also appeared before his Worship on a charge in respect of the child which has been recovered.

All four defendants entered pleas of not guilty.

A Police Raid.

In detailing the facts of the case to his Worship, Detective Inspector Fallon said that an armed robbery was committed by five men at a match at Kang Hau, Shatin, at 1 a.m. on December 9. During the robbery or after the outrage had been committed two children were kidnapped from the shed.

On December 15, a party of police raided the first floor of No. 606, Shanghai Street, where one of the children was recovered. None of the defendants was present on the floor but it would be proved that the husband and wife (first and second defendants) were the principal tenants. The couple's daughter would tell the Court that the children had been in the possession of her parents.

The third and fourth defendants were detained on February 19 after their discharge in other proceedings. The first and second defendants were not seen until February 7 when information was received by the Police that they were occupying a house at No. 509, Canton Road. A warrant was executed at this address and the female defendant was arrested. The husband was apprehended later on board a Dutch steamer where he was working.

Hurried Departure.

Evidence could be given to show that after the Police raid, the first and second defendants left No. 606, Shanghai Street, without even taking away the furniture which was sold by the land lord to pay for the rent. The couple later rented No. 509, Canton Road, but had no furniture of their own.

Referring to the charge against the third and fourth defendants, Detective Inspector Fallon said that the daughter of the first and second defendants would prove that the children had been taken to the floor by the last two men. Evidence corroborating the prosecutor's outline was given. During the testimony of the first and second defendants' daughter, the witness, after telling the Court that the third and fourth defendants had taken the children to the house, wept bitterly, but after being assured by the Magistrate that she had nothing to fear continued with her evidence.

When the children were taken to the house, said witness, the last two defendants said that they wanted them kept there for a short time. The boy was actually taken away two days' later, while the girl was still on the floor when the Police arrived.

His Worship sentenced defendants to twelve months' hard labour.

London, Feb. 28.

The French Ambassador in London, yesterday, called at the Foreign Office to express the sincere thanks of his Government for the evacuation of the French Legation and nationals from Kabul to Peshawar by Royal Air Force machines. —British Wireless.

Stapleton, and Mr. C. E. M. Terry was elected hon. secretary on the proposition of Mr. Manners, seconded by Mr. F. J. Easterbrook.

The chairman proposed that the following be elected to the committee for the ensuing year:—Messrs. C. M. Manners, F. C. Mow Fang, E. Abraham, C. E. Terry, E. Cock, B. W. Tape, B. Wylie, F. A. Edsborough, W. J. Stokes, F. W. Stapleton, K. Pestonji, H. F. Un, J. M. Alves, J. H. Hunt, W. J. Brown, E. C. Tregillus, W. Goldenberg, Capt. C. B. Riggs, Capt. T. Laurensen, the Rev. J. Horace Johnston, and Mr. Li In-to.

This proposal was seconded by Mr. Abraham, and was carried.

BRITISH ART.

SUCCESSFUL ORGANISATION OF EXHIBITIONS.

London, Feb. 28. The report for the past year of the British Artists Exhibition, founded by Sir Joseph Duveen with the object of giving possible purchasers of pictures at home and abroad an opportunity of becoming acquainted with the works of less known contemporary British artists, has been published.

About half a million people have visited the exhibitions in Britain, Italy, Yugo-Slavia, France, Belgium, Argentina and New York. From the point of view of sales the exhibition held on the liner Bor-engaria, both on the outward voyage to New York and on the return, and also for two days in New York, must, it is stated, be reckoned one of the most successful, nearly one third of the total exhibits being disposed of.

The report states—"In two years the British Artists Exhibitions movement has developed from a piece of experimental machinery into an organization. The programme for 1929 is being arranged on the same lines, the principal exhibitions to be held at Liverpool and Glasgow, so far as Britain is concerned, while Stockholm in the autumn has been selected as the foreign capital where British art is to be shown."—British Wireless.

DEMAND FOR COAL.

A BOOM IN THE BRITISH INDUSTRY.

London, Feb. 28. Continental ice conditions have created several rush orders for coal, as a result of which over half a million tons were exported from South Wales last week. This exceeds considerably any corresponding week during the past four years.

The demand for Yorkshire coal is actually exceeding the supply. Many extra miners are being employed.—Reuter.

RAILWAYS ALERT.

SEEKING POWERS FOR AERIAL TRANSPORT.

London, Feb. 28. Lord Churchill, presiding at the annual meeting of the Great Western Railway Company, announced that the railway companies generally were seeking powers to participate in aerial transport, as they considered development in this mode of travel would become a great factor in rapid transportation. —British Wireless.

Captain M. G. Noll, as from 5th March, 1929.

17. Long Service Medal.

His Excellency The Governor has awarded the Colonial Auxiliary Forces' Long Service Medal to No. 1252 Pte. R. J. Goodman, Scottish Company, Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps on 22nd February, 1929.

18. Marksmen.

The undermentioned have qualified as Marksmen for Training Season 1928-30, and are entitled to wear the badge for one year:—No. 1108 L/Serg. D. M. Richards, No. 2 Platoon 97 points. No. 80 C.S.M. H. Green, M. Gun. Coy. 92 points. No. 811 Serg. V. C. Branson, M.C. No. 2 Platoon 91 points.

ORCHID.

BY ELEANOR EARLY.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Mona, when she came on deck, had changed her white dress for a complete outfit of green. She had dressed, as usual, with complete disregard of the conventions. There were large single pearls in her ears, and a triple string of them about her throat.

She sank gracefully in her deck chair, and crossed her slim ankles. Mona seldom wore stockings. Her legs were brown and very slender. She smiled luminously at Ashtoreth, and, leaning forward, kissed her swiftly.

"I have seen Meester Smythe," she said, "and he told me what he had already told you. He says, also—Mona wrinkled her brows perplexedly—"Oh, yes—he says you are my trumpety little triumph. But, ma chérie, that is not so. He told me I flout you in the face of the 'fat ladies.' That I have embarrassed you, because now they will not speak to you when I go to Guadeloupe. And you will be all alone."

Ashtoreth laid her hands on Mona's knees.

"I am sorry," she said, "that he distressed you, because, honestly, Mona, I don't give a darn about these women. I like you heaps better. I'm sorry you're leaving at Guadeloupe because it's been lovely having you for a commode. Mona came truly—it all these cats came travelling on their knees. I wouldn't speak to them. I shan't mind a bit being alone."

A suspicion of tears dimmed Mona's eyes. She jumped quickly to her feet.

"Then," she cried, "we shall go ashore together. There is a Chinese shop here, and I shall buy my little friend a Mandarin's coat, because she is a good girl, and I love her. And a little trinket of jade, for good luck. Then you may say, 'I knew Mona de Mused, and she brought me good luck.'"

She was excited as a child. "Come quickly," she begged, "and you shall wear a dress, give the fat ladies pains. One I have not ever worn. It was made for you, ma chérie."

That evening Mona stayed ashore. Ashtoreth had dinner brought on deck. And there Jack Smythe joined her.

"I hope you're not angry with me," he began.

"But I am," Ashtoreth told him. "He took the chair by her side, and began, leisurely, to fill his pipe."

"That's too bad," he remarked, "because I've only one more night on board. And you know you haven't kissed me yet."

"Kissed you?" she cried. "Why, I wouldn't kiss you if you were the last man on earth."

He lit his pipe before replying. "Oh yes, you would," he assured her. "Mona won't be back till late. She has lots of friends in port. She didn't ask you to stay ashore with her, I notice."

Ashtoreth poured another cup of tea, and dropped a slice of lime in it. She would be just as casual about it as he was.

"A perfect night," she agreed.

"But not for you and me. Don't you know I don't like you?"

"Well, I noticed that I hadn't exactly slain you," he admitted.

"But you couldn't help loving me a little tonight—the moon, you know, and the stars. The tropics begin to get in your blood. This sultry climate, don't you know, is awfully conducive to love."

Ashtoreth dimpled.

"Yes," she said, "I suppose it must be. I hope I meet somebody nice before the trip's over. It's just too bad you're the only man around."

He laughed good naturedly.

"We'll have a dance after dinner," he proposed. "And then when it gets a little dark, we'll leave their old orchestra flat. We'll go up and talk to the stars."

Mona had not returned, and Ashtoreth was bored. At eight o'clock Jack knocked on her state-room door. And she greeted him in a swirl of chiffon, pink as the heart of a rose. Mona had insisted it did not suit her, and was a little tight besides. It was perfect on Ashtoreth.

"You're gorgeous," Jack told her. "I told you you were beautiful."

"It's Mona's," she informed him. "The dress, I mean. It's so flattering, anyone would look pretty in it. The beads are hers, too, and the earrings. I wish I could wear her shoes, but they're just a little too big for me."

"Gold digger," he retorted. "You're incorrigible—and you ought to be ashamed of yourself."

"I'll go up on deck with you," she countered, "because it's altogether too wonderful to miss. But I won't let you kiss me."

"You won't?" he cried. "Have you seen the moon?"

"I saw it rise," she said, "like a little white ghost."

Jack came closer.

"You haven't seen a thing," he said. "And you simply don't know what you're talking about. It's incredible that a girl should want to sit on deck—under a million stars—and not be kissed. It's just a bawdy myth—that's all it is. Now see here, Ashtoreth, you're going to get kissed to-night. You are, I mean, if you come up on deck with me. If you don't like the notion, you might just as well stay down here and go to bed."

"What!" she gasped.

He came in the room then, and put his hands on her shoulders.

"You heard me," he told her.

"Oh, well!"

Ashtoreth gathered up a wrap of Mona's. "If you feel that way about it," she said.

"She put the thing about her, 'Come on, then!'"

He'd talk to her like that, would he? Who did he think she was? And who did he think she was? She'd show him! Just because he thought he looked like the Prince of Wales! Maybe now, with Sadie . . . or Mona, even

"Come on!" she cried. "What are you waiting for?"

"One little kiss," he told her. "For a sample, you know."

"All right. He could have it. Just one, though. One, to show him how very wonderful it would be to have some more. She'd punish him!"

Then, without putting his arms about her, he bent and kissed her on the lips. Most boys tried to hug a girl. Jack hadn't touched her.

"Like that?" he asked. . . . And she shook her head, dumbly.

"It will be a ship scandal if we stay here," he informed her. "By the way, did Mona send any message aboard?"

"No," Ashtoreth told him. "She's with friends, you know. She won't be back until quite late. She thinks they may know something about her people at Guadeloupe. . . . her old nurse. Mona hasn't heard since the hurricane. She says the poor woman was probably killed. She lived all alone in a little house up in the mountains. Mona gets awfully upset whenever she talks about it. She's so good-hearted, you know. I imagine she loved that old nurse tremendously."

Smythe shrugged.

"Mona does," he said, "love tremendously. Just between you and me, though, I imagine she wouldn't be exactly stricken, if the poor old nurse had gone the way of all flesh. Not," he added hastily, "that I've any particular reason for thinking so. Only I should think it would be natural enough, shouldn't you? After all, they couldn't have had much in common."

"Why, I know she'd be simply heart-broken," declared Ashtoreth. "She cried all night long last night—just worrying."

They had reached the smoking room.

"What do you say if we have one little drink?" proposed Jack.

"Just one."

Ashtoreth felt reckless.

"All right," she agreed. "I'll break a rule. I'll have a cocktail with a cherry in it—no, I won't—I'll have an olive!"

"Whisky and soda," he ordered, "and a martini."

While they waited to be served, he considered Ashtoreth indulgently.

"You don't ever drink, do you?" he asked. "Such a funny way to order! It's strange, too—you know thought all American girls drank like fish."

"I told you I didn't," she reminded him.

"I know—but I don't believe all I'm told," he retorted. "Why don't you tell me now that you weren't ever kissed under a moon before?"

Ashtoreth smiled.

"Because that wouldn't be true," she confessed.

It was only last month that Monty English had kissed her beneath a full moon. Sometimes Monty said the prettiest things. That night he had quoted a little bit of poetry. Thomas Moore, he said, had written it. And Ashtoreth had looked it up later. "Fly Yeet" was the name, and Monty had said that Moore was the loveliest Irish poet that ever lived.

PROFESSOR EXPLAINS "AURAS."

TISSUE MADE LUMINOUS BY "COSMIC" RAYS.

Paris, Feb. 5.

A scientific explanation of the "aura" which spiritualists declare they can see surrounding human beings, was given at the French Academy of Science yesterday by Professor Fabry.

Experiments recently carried out by Mallet, he said, showed that, when gamma rays were applied to a substance, it became luminous. An analysis of this "luminosity" showed it to consist not only of the spectrum rays, but of ultra violet rays as well.

M. Fabry added that certain "cosmic" rays produced a similar effect on fluids and on living tissue, which certain sensitive people could observe, and which had given rise to a number of mystical beliefs.

Five vehicles—a Ford car, a taxicab, a tramway-car, a steam wagon and a private car—were concerned in a series of collisions on the Embankment near Westminster recently. The Ford car was tossed about, first by one vehicle and then another, like a shuttlecock. The Ford began its own troubles by coming into collision with a stationary taxicab.

It then swerved on to the tramway lines, where a tramway-car tossed it back into the road. At last, it was struck by a steam lorry, which knocked it back again, and after being struck by a private car it came to a standstill. All the vehicles were damaged, but the Ford was practically knocked to pieces. The driver of the latter kept his seat until the last collision, when he was thrown out into the roadway. Apparently he was not injured.

Local estates which have recently been dealt with at the Supreme Court include that of Mo Chun, otherwise Mo A-chun, widow, who died intestate at No. 24, Elgin Street, first floor, on April 4, 1927, leaving Hongkong estate to the value of $46,900.

Letters of administration have been granted to Mr. Horace Lo, of Messrs. Lo and Lo, who is the guardian of testator's daughter, Rose Perry, at present a minor.

Fung Yuk-shan, alias Fung Lam-au, alias Stephen Fung, who was a clerk employed by the Asiatic Petroleum Company (South China) Limited, at Hongkong, left local estate to the value of $9,000.

He died at No. 6, Ying Fai Terrace on October 18, 1928.

Probate has been granted to Mr. C. F. (Yuen Chan-ai), No. 30, Leighton Hill Road, a friend, and to Mr. John Fung, No. 56, Bonham Road, a nephew, who are the executors.

The testator bequeaths everything to the widow Ling Shi, to be held in trust for the children.

The draw for the motor cycle raffle organised by St. Peter's Young Men's Club took place on Tuesday evening last. The winning number was 602, held by Mr. Yik Tan of the Hongkong Excavation, Pile Driving and Construction Co., Ltd.

Mexico City, Feb. 28.

Lindbergh's accident apparently was due to the failure of the mechanics to replace the cotter pin in the axle of the right wheel, which consequently came off when Lindbergh took off. Lindbergh was aware of the danger, and warned his fiancée. He piled cushions about her and exhausted his petrol in order to prevent an explosion. He landed most skillfully on one wheel which, however broke under the strain.

GALLI-CURCI.

DUE TO ARRIVE HERE TO-MORROW.

One of the great figures of her generation and the possessor of one of the most marvellous voices in the world to-day, Madame Amelita Galli-Curci, star of the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, and the Singing magnet supreme, is arriving here to-morrow by the President Taft from Seattle. Accompanying her are, Homer Samuels, husband- pianist, Luigi Alberghini, fustist, and Lawrence Evans, Madame Galli-Curci's New York manager. After a season of five recitals in Manila, the party will return to America by way of Hongkong, Shanghai, North China, Japan and Honolulu.

In presenting Madame Galli-Curci to the musical public of the Orient, Mr. Stok has attained his greatest triumph. No other great artist has quite so entrenched herself as a universal favourite amongst music-lovers the world over as Galli-Curci has done. Born thirty-six years ago in Milan, of Spanish-Italian parentage, her rise to fame has been meteoric. Her voice has been described as a composite of all the gifts of the gods. The Metropolitan Opera Company star holds the record of having appeared in recital before the world's largest audience when she sang to a throng of over 27,000 persons in the Hollywood Bowl on the outskirts of Los Angeles.

Madame Galli-Curci will give one recital here at the Queen's Theatre on Monday, March 25th.

American Express Travelers Cheques

Definition of TRAVELLERS' CHEQUES—

"The system of Travellers Cheques was originated in 1891 by the American Express Company with the object of creating a form of travel currency which would give the holder the security of a letter of credit and at the same time the convenience of local currency. The Company registered the cheques under the trade name of 'AMERICAN EXPRESS TRAVELLERS' CHEQUES' the world 'Travellers' being spelled with one 'L'. The advantage of the Cheques was so apparent that other banking institutions adopted the system."

Quoted from Pitman's Dictionary of Banking by Wm. Thomson. Issued in £10, £20, £50 and $5 and $10 denomination—bound in a small handy wallet and cost only 3/4 1 per cent. Secure your steamship tickets, hotel reservation and itineraries; or plan your cruises of tour through—

TOASTS PROPOSED.

DEBATING CLUB FUNCTION AT THE Y.M.C.A.

A successful function held at the Y.M.C.A., Kowloon, some time ago was repeated yesterday when the Literary and Debating Club Committee held a toast night at which were present several directors of the Institution, Mr. P. S. Cassidy, chairman of the Club presiding.

After dinner the chairman proposed the loyal toast and Mr. P. Sanda toasted "Our Colony," saying that it was not until after the new arrival had passed the griffin stage that the beauties of Hongkong were appreciated. Mr. Sanda went on to speak of the "discovery" of the Colony by the members of the Rambling Club in their New Territory hikes. Applying to the toast the Rev. J. H. Jackson commented on the progress of the Colony and said he thought there were greater possibilities of extension in Kowloon rather than on Hongkong Island. Those who prophesied were undoubtedly looking to the Kowloon side and the speaker instanced the recent building progress and the fact that the Peninsula was now represented by two members on the Legislative Council.

The Servicemen.

The toast to "Our Servicemen" was proposed by Mr. A. A. Dand who paid tributes to the work of the Navy, Army, Air Force and Mercantile Marine, speaking of their services during the war and showing how they had assured British supremacy. They were the four finest services in the world consisting of men who always played the game.

Replying, Lt. Colonel Christian said the Services constituted a glorious brotherhood born as a result of the war. Servicemen owed a deep debt of gratitude to the Y.M.C.A. the world over and they were duly appreciative of the service which the Association rendered.

The toast of "Our Guests" was proposed in witty fashion by Mr. W. Robertson who spoke of the pleasure it gave members of the Association to entertain some of the Directors. The Very Rev. Alfred Swann replied and expressed thanks on behalf of the visitors for the hospitality accorded them. Presentation to Chairman.

Mr. W. E. Price proposed "The Y.M.C.A.," referring to the growth of the Association and the important work it had continued to do since its foundation. The Hon. Sir Henry Pollock, K.C., in reply, said he hoped the members would not forget that the Association stood for the benefit of others. He knew that the high standard always maintained by the Y.M.C.A. in Hongkong would continue to be upheld and that it would always uphold its essential Christian principles.

Mr. T. V. Harmon proposed a toast to the Chairman and spoke of Mr. Cassidy's public service in connection with many local bodies, stating that in so far as the Literary and Debating Club was concerned he had presided at more debates than any other chairman. Mr. Harmon presented the chairman with a photograph of members of the committee of the Club as a token of their appreciation of his services.

Mr. Cassidy said it had been a pleasure to attend the Y.M.C.A. debates and to be chairman of the Committee. Extending thanks for the presentation he said it was a gesture very much appreciated.

THE ROYAL VISIT.

CHINESE TO ENTERTAIN THE DUKE OF GLOUCESTER.

In connexion with the coming visit of H. R. H. the Duke of Gloucester, who is heading a mission to Japan to present the Japanese Emperor with the Order of the Garter, there was a meeting in the Chinese Merchants Club, China Building, yesterday afternoon, when a number of eminent local Chinese merchants discussed preparations to welcome the Royal party.

Among those present were the Hon. Sir Shouson Chow, who presided, the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall, C.M.G., LL.D., the Hon. Dr. S. W. Tso, O.B.E., LL.D., (the three Chinese representatives on the Hongkong Legislative Council), Sir Robert Ho Tung, Mr. Li Yau-tsun, Chairman of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, and many others.

After some discussion it was decided to entertain the Duke of Gloucester and his party to a Chinese dinner and reception, and to present to him a beautiful example of Chinese embroidery decorated with Chinese characters of an appropriate nature.

A committee of twenty-five was elected to carry out the preparations for the reception, etc., including the above-mentioned gentlemen.

DINNER MUSIC.

THE SUFFOLK'S ORCHESTRA AT LANE CRAWFORD'S.

For to-morrow evening, Lane Crawford's are arranging another of the popular orchestral concerts during dinner time. For this occasion, the Symphony Orchestra of 16 performers of H.M.S. Suffolk has been engaged.

This is said to be the first occasion that this excellent orchestra will have performed before a Hongkong audience; but the fact that it will be accompanying H.R.H. the Duke of Gloucester to Lane Crawford's Restaurant that they are in for a musical treat.

A carefully prepared programme has been arranged, and is of an exceptionally varied nature, embracing popular symphonies, overtures, operas, and the lighter music.

It is hoped to continue these concerts during dinner for at least two or three times a week during March, but this depends entirely on the public support that is forthcoming.

INDIA'S FINANCIAL POSITION.

BUDGET INTRODUCED BY NEW FINANCE MINISTER.

NEW TAX ON PETROL.

New Delhi, Feb. 28.
The Indian Government's Budget for the coming financial year shows that there will be a surplus of 30 lakhs on the estimate for 1928.
Sir George Schuster, who today introduced the Budget in the Legislative Assembly, stated that he had budgeted for a deficit of 90 lakhs next year the difference being mainly due to a fortuitous factor, namely, the unequal distribution of the salt revenue between the last two budgetary periods.

The only new taxation recommended by the Finance Minister is an increase of motor-spirit dues from 4 annas to 6 annas per gallon. The proceeds of this additional taxation will be devoted to the Road Development Fund.

Army expenditure remains the same. Eighteen crores of rupees will be required for various purposes, said Sir George Schuster, who added that the Government would borrow as far as possible in India before raising a sterling loan.

He condemned any idea of altering the value of the 1/6d. rupee, concluding that it was his firm conviction that India's financial position was fundamentally sound.

NANKING AVOIDS DANGER.

HO CHIEN AS CHAIRMAN OF HUNAN GOVERNMENT.

Hankow, Feb. 28.
The anti-Communist activities of the Political Council has started afresh in the Wuhan area, and nine men arrested and alleged to have been guilty of Communist propaganda were executed to-day. Further executions are expected later.

It is reported that General Ho Chien arrived at Changsha yesterday to take up the office of Chairman of the Hunan Provincial Government and this is taken to signify that the Nanking Government has approved of the deposition of General Lu Tsi-ping. Possibilities of an extension of the trouble have, therefore, been averted for the present.—Reuter.

POLICE ACTION CRITICISED.

LAWYER PROTESTS AGAINST ARREST.

Sub-Inspector Field, of the Hawks Department, at the Central Police Court this morning withdrew the case against a Chinese who was charged under the Hawkers Ordinance.

No explanation accompanied the application for withdrawal, and Mr. E. S. C. Brooks, appearing for the defence, commented:—"The defendant is employed in a very substantial firm, and it makes one wonder what the motive was to seize this man from behind the counter and take him to the Police Station."

In reply to his Worship, Mr. Brooks said he was instructed to make the protest. "The defendant was employed in the Hung Hing firm, Queen's Road Central."

HIDDEN DYNAMITE.

FISHING BOAT MASTER FINED.

Pleading guilty to a charge of unlawful possession of 22 sticks of dynamite, 24 detonators and 11 pieces of fuse, the master of a fishing boat was fined $25, with the alternative of three weeks' hard labour, by Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning.

Two of the master's folk were also charged, but, on the first defendant taking full responsibility, they were cautioned.

It was stated that when Sergeant Went carried out a search, the dynamite was found hidden.

BIG U.S. EXPLOSION.

EIGHT KILLED AND FIFTEEN INJURED.

New York, Feb. 28.
It is learned from Atlanta, Georgia, that eight persons have been killed and fifteen injured in the explosion of a compressed air tank at Stone Mountain, where the huge Confederate Civil War Memorial is being carved.—Reuter's American Service.

TRAMWAY MEETING.

In extending the requirements of public service in this way in no less a sum than $2,500,000.00 (two and a half million dollars).

We not only carry passengers at much less than the fares specified in the Ordinance but carry them for such a long distance at a 6-cent fare that no Bus Company could possibly achieve and remain solvent. We maintain (which otherwise the Government would have to maintain) large portions of the main roadway between Shaukiwan and Kennedy Town and in the last 2 years alone we have paid about $100,000 in Royalty to the Government.

Not Doomed.

Mr. Belth then went on to refer to new tramway undertakings at Home and proceeded:

"To those who honestly think that the doom of the tramway is imminent let me commend a fresh perusal of Mr. Bernard's speech in this room at the Annual General Meeting in 1926. What he told you then regarding the unquestionable superiority of tramways over motor buses for mass transportation in large towns, is just as true and unassailable to-day and I do not propose to labour this."

He later added:—"One point in connection with the Hongkong situation which should be borne in mind is that for the first eight years of this Company's existence no dividend was earned, but the Company—confident of Hongkong's future development—was undaunted and carried steadily on. Whether this would have been the case had your Board of, say 20 years ago, suspected that after building up a thriving business and after 24 years of operation they were to be attacked on the most remunerative section of their system, is doubtful. At any rate there would have been incorporated in the Ordinance a clause which would have afforded them some measure of protection just as Clause 27 of the Tramway Ordinance affords the Government and the Public protection and redress in the event of inefficient or insufficient service by the Company."

Kowloon Service.

Although I am dealing with the year 1928 shareholders will be glad to know that the Company has obtained—at reasonable cost—a footing in Kowloon by the purchase of the Kai Tack Motor Bus Co., which we commenced to operate—with the approval of the Government—as from January 1st this year. Thus we have had exactly two months experience of working this small undertaking and shareholders will be pleased to hear that, so far, the expenses have been less and the receipts have been greater than we estimated.

The fleet comprises 10 vehicles—fortunately all of one make, and a very good make—but this number will be increased very shortly. Indeed four new chassis for our Kai Tack service are due to arrive here from England to-day and we have been authorised by the police, as soon as these new buses are available, to extend our present service in Kowloon by operating on Route No. 9 which is during rush hours along Nathan Road between Star Ferry and Mong Kok Police Station. Hitherto the activities of the Kai Tack Motor Bus Co. have been confined to routes which did not include any part of Nathan Road.

Hotel Co. Competition.

Mr. A. H. Ferguson, who seconded the adoption of the report and accounts, dealt with the question of road maintenance and proceeded to say:—"I do think that in view of the royalty this Tramway Company pays annually to the Government and the further large contribution it indirectly makes in relieving the Colony of considerable road surface expenditure, it should have been considered and consulted before any other Company, when the desirability of motor buses along Queen's Road became apparent to the Government. The argument that the competition which we see to-day between the Hotel Company and the Tramway Company is fair competition is not tenable."

To be absolutely fair it seems to me the Tramway Company should be allowed a considerable reduction in the terms of their street surface maintenance, and in the sense of equality it appears only right that in the matter of payment of royalty the bus companies and the trams should be brought more into line."

It has been difficult for me to understand why the Hongkong Hotels, Ltd., should have obtained the Queen's Road franchise, and I am glad to have your assurance, Sir, that the Tramway Co. is in no way to blame. It is only reasonable that the Hotel Co. for their patrons at Repulse Bay, should arrange transport to and from town or between their two hotels

CHINA AND LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

POSSIBILITY MOOTED OF WITHDRAWAL.

SURPRISE TO GENEVA.

Geneva, Feb. 28.

Much surprise is expressed at the League Secretariat at the news from Nanking to the effect that Mr. Sun Fo, the Nationalist Minister of Railways has proposed China's withdrawal from the League of Nations.

A message from Nanking indicates that the proposal has not been put forward definitely but says that it is a practical certainty that the Kuomintang Congress will vote in favour of withdrawal if the suggestion is put forward.

It is stated here that no indication of any such intention on the part of the Nationalist Government of China has been received at Geneva either by the League Secretariat, or the Chinese delegates.

It is pointed out that M. Avenol, the Deputy-Secretary of the League, is now touring China and that his tour is proceeding normally. He has been widely entertained both by Chinese and foreigners in the course of the trip.—Reuter.

SUPPRESSING CHEFOO REVOLT.

CHIANG SENDING MEN AS WELL AS SUPPLIES.

Nanking, Feb. 28.

In addition to the despatch of a large quantity of ammunition and financial assistance to General Liu Chien-nien, the officer defending Nationalist interests in Eastern Shantung, it is announced that Marshal Chiang Kai-shek is arranging to reinforce the Nationalist troops in the Chefoo district.—Reuter.

Naval wireless messages received to-day from Chefoo state that since General Liu repulsed the enemy on February 23, the general situation has remained unchanged.

General Liu is reported to be consolidating his position and moving further supplies to the front, which is some thirteen to fifteen miles west of Chefoo.

The General is said to be awaiting orders from Nanking and appears to be confident that he can hold his position.

RAID IN TIENTSIN CONCESSION.

GENERAL ARRESTED AND LATER EXECUTED.

Tientsin, Mar. 1.

General Chiang Hung-fun, an alleged supporter of General Chang Chung-chang, the Shantung leader, was arrested yesterday in the course of a raid in the foreign concession area at Tientsin. Five other officers were also taken into custody.

General Chiang is alleged to have been plotting on behalf of Chang Chung-chang in Tientsin. After a trial, he was found guilty, and executed.—Nam Chung Pao.

FINE TO CLOUDY.

To-day's Observatory report states that a fresh anticyclone has formed over North China and a depression lies over N.E. Japan. Moderate to fresh monsoon may be expected along the S.E. coast of China and over the North China Sea. The forecast till noon to-morrow is:—North-East winds, moderate, fine to cloudy.

on the Island, but I can see no more justification in the Hotel Co. operating buses in open and deliberate competition with the Tramway Company (and more especially along a parallel route) than in the Tramway Co. building an Hotel and competing with the Hotel Co.

Appropriate Spheres.

We are a small and perhaps unimportant community, gentlemen, but while we are here let us confine our energies to our appropriate spheres of activity. As far as I am able to judge, the Tramway Co. is operating and always has operated its transportation concern admirably just as the Hotel Co. has run its hotels admirably, and I suggest that these two companies and the Government get their heads together without delay to see if the matter cannot be straightened out as, prima facie, a distinct injustice appears to have been done to the Tramway Co.
